BODY FOUND WITH GUN UNDER HEAD AND HAT AT SIDE
BLACK DERBY FOUND IN ALLEYWAY

Miss Josephine Alberts, Alan M. Fay, and photo-diagram showing position of Fay's body and the two mysterious hats.

ANOTHER MAN IN THE FAY TRAGEDY

New facts brought to light to-day by friends of Alan Motley Fay, the young stock broker, clubman and Harvard graduate, who was shot and almost instantly killed yesterday beneath the window of Miss Josephine Alberts of No. 16 Berwick park, throw some doubt upon the theory of the police that the young man killed himself.

Arthur I. Wood, a Harvard man and close friend of Mr. Sewall of the firm of Fay & Sewall, of which the dead man was a member, is making an investigation of the shooting. He declared to-day that if Fay shot himself there are many mysterious features of the midnight tragedy that have not yet been explained.

Wood is a friend of Chester Weekes, a college man, whose room overlooks the place of the shooting. The two young men had been at a boxing match on Tuesday night and were still up in Weekes's room when the shooting took place. Weekes was the first man to reach the dying man's side.

The following facts are cited by Wood to show that there was possibly another man with Fay when the shooting took place:

There were two men's hats in the alleyway. One hat, apparently Fay's, lay near him. Another hat was some distance away.

Near the second hat was a bottle nearly filled with whiskey. This hat, it is declared, did not belong to Fay.

The revolver with which Fay was shot was not in his hand. It lay near his head with the butt from him.

There were no powder marks on Fay's face. This was admitted by Medical Examiner William G. MacDonald.

Fay, who was desperately in love with Josephine Alberts, and had importuned her to marry him, the young woman said, had a rival for her affections.

Miss Alberts had been seen in the company of another man on the evening preceding the shooting.

Miss Alberts said that the reason she would not marry Fay was because it would estrange him from his family. His friends think that possibly the rival may have had something to do with her refusal.

Some friends of Fay do not believe that he deliberately went to the window of Miss Alberts while she slept, deliberately fired four shots through the glass and then killed himself. They believe that some extraordinary motive must have caused the shooting, even if he did it himself, and that there are features of the tragedy that have not been made public as yet.

The two hats found on the scene was the first thing to arouse the suspicions of Fay's friends. The one lying near the body was of soft brown and had the trade stamp, Gallise & Fairbanks.

WHEAT GOES STILL HIGHER IN CHICAGO

All wheat price records were again broken to-day when the May quotation at Chicago went to $1.29½. The unprecedented advance, with no immediate prospects of a drop, is raising flour and bread prices all over the country.

At Washington the Attorney-General is trying to find a law which will permit him to smash Patten's wheat corner and save bread consumers from paying higher prices.

A deluge of protests demanding action has reached President Taft, and he ordered his attorney-general to take action at once if the laws would allow legal proceedings.

It is believed Congress may act as the President intends to send a special message. A bill prohibiting corners may be the result.

The Master Bakers' Association and the Hebrew Master Bakers' Association of Boston meet to-morrow afternoon to determine whether or not they will increase the price of bread 20 per cent. Many bakers say this must be done, as they are selling at a less with wheat at its present prices. The bakers plan a raise of 20 per cent.

If the master bakers' associations decide to raise the price this will be done by cutting down the size of the loaves of bread. Less bread by weight will be sold in loaves for the same prices as to-day.

"We are going to be compelled to raise the price of bread and rolls," said Adolph Welsberg, president of the Hebrew Master Bakers' Asociation. "Every article used by the baker has gone up thirty per cent., and we can't sell bread at the old prices. The large majority of our members favor charging more for bread."

"I'm not a grain trader and I don't intend to quit," said James A. Patten, the man who has engineered the present wheat corner.

STREETS OF CAPITAL CLEANED BY WOMEN

WASHINGTON, April 15.—This morning the women of the Twentieth Century Club, assisted by scores of other women, began the work of making Washington a spotless town. They swooped down on every stray bit of paper and trash on street, sidewalk, lawn or porch. Washington to-day looked cleaner than it has before in years. The Twentieth Century Club started the movement to point out the possibilities in the way of clean streets.

DEVLIN SUMMONS DROPPED AT DUBLIN

DUBLIN, April 15.—The magistrate today dismissed the summons against Secretary Joseph Devlin, member of Parliament, and Assistant Secretary Johnson of the United Irish League, accused by Eugene Crean, M. P., of creating a disturbance in the national convention on February 9.

COLOR IS LIFE.

General advertisers are appreciating more and more the effectiveness of color advertising. Particularly is this true of those manufacturers who have established for their products a wide distribution, but who still realize the necessity for keeping their name and trade-mark permanently before the public. A striking example of effective color advertising is the announcement of the National Cash Register Company, which occupies the back cover page of the Sunday Magazine, issue of April 18th. Every merchant who is interested in good advertising (and all progressive merchants are) should note particularly the splendid example of publicity. In addition to being attractive in illustration, the advertisement tells an emphatic story, which should be carefully considered by every retail merchant.

EX-SENATOR IS A SUICIDE

Alden P. Jaques of Haverhill, Who Made a Fortune Out of Shoe Machines, Ends His Life Rather Than Continue Suffering.

HAVERHILL, April 15.—Alden Potter Jaques, a wealthy resident of this city, former State Senator and member of the lower branch of the Legislature, as well as the first man to employ steam as a shoe factory motor, and the originator of the "string system" in shoe making, committed suicide at early hour to-day by firing a bullet through the roof of his mouth.

He arrived in Boston yesterday from Pasadena, Calif., where he went in January last for his health. Fear of physical suffering is supposed to be the motive which prompted him to end life.

He was seventy-four years old. He was suffering from hardening of the arteries. When Mr. Jaques and his wife reached Boston they were met at the station by Dr. Young of Haverhill, the family physician. Dr. Young brought Mr. Jaques to his home on Highland avenue in Haverhill and stayed by his bedside until early to-day.

When the physician left the house Frank Sargent, a nephew of the dead man, took his place as watcher. Mr. Jaques sent Mr. Sargent out of the room on an errand. Scarcely had Mr. Sargent left the bedside when he heard a shot and the sound of a body falling heavily. He rushed back to the room and found Mr. Jaques dead on the floor.

Mr. Jaques is survived by a widow and a son, Walter H. Jaques. He was born in Bowdoin, Me., where his father was a building contractor and Mr. Jaques followed that business himself after coming to Haverhill in 1859, although he had previously been a ship joiner.

MISS ELSA PUTNAM IS NOW MRS. POWELL

Just as the chimes of Arlington Street Church sounded at 2:30 to-day, pretty Elsa Putnam, the fair danseuse of the Vincent Club and popular society favorite, became the bride of the wealthy young club man, Samuel Powell.

The bride wore a trailing robe of white satin and lace, over which fell an enveloping veil of tulle and duchesse lace. Miss Janet House of Austin, Tex., and New York was maid of honor.

The bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Hare Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hare Powell of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and a cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Hope Hemenway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Hemenway.

The groom's younger brother, Thomas Ives Hare Powell, Harvard '10, was best man.

A reception and breakfast at the Charlesgate followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Powell will sail for Europe, where they will spend six weeks. Upon their return they will go to East Greenwich for the Summer and next Winter will reside in Providence.

RETURN PAYNE BILL TO FIX OIL "JOKER"

WASHINGTON, April 15.—In the Senate to-day, on motion of Senator Aldrich, the tariff bill was returned to the House in order to allow the change to be made in reference to the alleged petroleum "Joker." Senator Aldrich said he had intended asking that the tariff bill be considered to-day, but owing to the bill going back to the House he would defer the discussion until next Monday. He said he believed the committee amendments would be reported in about ten days.

WALLIS NEW STROKE ON THE YALE CREW

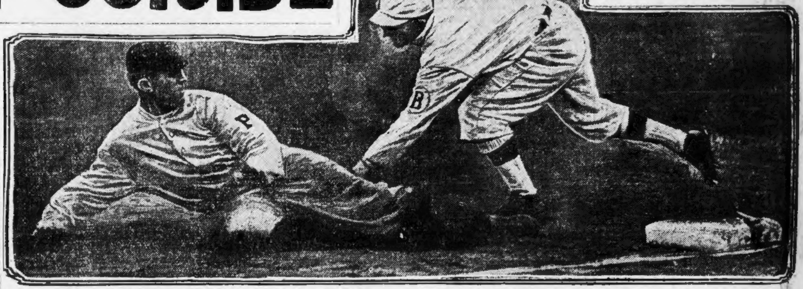
NEW HAVEN, April 15.—Benjamin Franklin Wallis of Dorchester, Mass., was to-day placed at the position of stroke on the Yale crew, Captain Henry Howe, who has been there all the Spring, retiring. Howe stroked the eight in the Pennsylvania race, and, while he has been strong and rugged, he is not as fast a driver as Wallis, who was stroke of the varsity four last year, the only Yale crew to defeat Harvard on the Thames. Wallis has been rowing No. 4.

FILES BILL FOR 20 MEAT INSPECTORS

A bill that provides for the division of the State into twenty districts, in each of which there shall be a meat and cattle inspector at an annual salary of $1,200, was filed to-day in the House by Representative Frank Quigley.

WAS BRANSFIELD OUT AT THIRD?

This photograph shows a disputed play in yesterday's game between the Doves and Philadelphias. Bransfield overran third base, thinking the throw was going to the plate, but Mattern intercepted the ball and caught Bransfield, according to the decision, which he protested. The camera shows the umpire was right.



LURED ON SHIP, GIRL'S NOTE IS BORNE ASHORE

OAKLAND, Cal., April 15.—A message purporting to tell of the plight of Rosaline Rockayn, a Denver girl, who came to the coast and who was drugged and carried out to sea by a man who had offered her his services as a guide to a boarding house, was washed up on the water front to-day.

The paper was contained in a bottle which the girl threw from the cabin porthole of her prison ship, trusting that her appeal would reach some one who would inform her relatives and bring about her release. The message says, in part:

"I cast this bottle overboard with the hope that it will be found. I arrived from the East Thursday, and being a stranger to San Francisco did not know where to find the main part of the city. A gentleman, as I supposed at that time, met me on the water front and asked me if I were looking for some one."

Continuing, the message tells of the offer of this man to see the girl safely housed, of his success in persuading her to come aboard his ship to wait until he should be at liberty to go with her, of drugged wine and of a deep sleep from which she awoke to find herself a prisoner aboard the vessel far out at sea. The last paragraph reads:

"If you can read this please notify my brother and tell him that Rosaline wants him to try to find her. I don't know the name of the ship. He is coming back. I wish I could jump overboard and it would all be over. Please write to Ned Rockayn, Denver, Col. This ship is rolling and I am ill.

(Signed) "ROSALINE ROCKAYN."

3 BOY SLAYERS OF FATHER ACQUITTED

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., April 15.—The three boys who killed their father, William Thomas, to save their own lives at Delamar Camp, on the Nevada Desert, were exonerated. After beating his wife, Thomas went to the brush and made preparations to hang the boys, aged ten, thirteen and fifteen respectively, when the thirteen-year-old lad seized a gun and killed his father.

SENATOR BRONSTON DIES IN KENTUCKY

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 15.—Senator Charles J. Bronston, well known in Washington, New York and St. Louis, died here to-day. He took a prominent part in the Goebel controversy following the shooting of the Kentucky Governor. Bronston eloped with Miss Bell Windom of Paducah in February, 1897. Their subsequent suit for divorce was a sensation in Kentucky.

SOUTHERN SEASON OPENS TO-DAY

ATLANTA, April 15.—The Southern Association opens its ninth season to-day in four cities. This year the league has the best prospects of any season since it was first organized. Little Rock will open the season in Memphis; Montgomery at Nashville; Mobile at New Orleans, and Birmingham at Atlanta.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The Giants were scheduled to play off the opening game with Brooklyn at the Polo Grounds to-day, but the weather and grounds were very unfavorable.

Prior to the game there was much uncertainty as to whether it would be attempted, but the local management hoped to get in the going after yesterday's fiasco.

The attendance under any circumstances was likely to be limited.

DAN SULLIVAN IS AFTER BIG FIGHTERS

Dan Sullivan, the youngest member of the fighting family of that name, and brother of the famous twins, who won the national amateur championship in the 158-pound class, is going to turn professional and will go after the top middleweights in the country.

After a short rest Dan will challenge Bill McKinnon, Sailor Burke or any of the classy men who scale in around his weight.

There is not a more promising youngster in the ring than the kid member of the Sullivans and he appears to be equipped with all that is necessary in a mitt battle.

He has a faster left hand than his brother, who has been in the ring several years, and is handy with his right, while his gameness is unquestioned.

200 FLEE STEAMER; LOSE 9,000 SEALS

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 15.—With but a short distance from their home port, the 200 men composing the crew of the sealing steamer Vanguard had to abandon their craft and all the results of a month of strenuous work when the steamer's main shaft was broken in the ice fields. A catch of 9,000 seals went down with the steamer.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

BEATEN BY MANIAC, ACTOR MAY DIE

PORT WASHINGTON, L. I., April 15.—Attacked by a man known as "Crazy Mike," now held by the police as a lunatic, who is charged with having "shot up" the railroad station, William L. Blaisdell, an old-time actor, who won fame on the comedy stage, is lying seriously injured in his home. Blaisdell was fired upon. He escaped flying bullets, but was beaten with the butt of a revolver. Two other persons narrowly escaped being shot.

THE WEATHER.

Fair and somewhat colder to-day. Friday fair Light winds, generally northerly.

VERY LATEST NEWS

PRINCE ARTHUR WITH 250 ABOARD REPORTED LOST

PORTLAND, Me., April 15—It is rumored here that the Dominion and Atlantic steamer Prince Arthur, bound for Bermuda with 250 passengers on board, has sunk.

The Prince Arthur steamed from here.

It is impossible to verify the rumor.

The Dominion American Line people of Boston said at their office this afternoon that they had received a report to the effect that the Prince Arthur had been sunk and then, soon after that, they received another message to the effect that the sender had been misinformed.

Though the Boston-Philadelphia and the Red Sox-Athletic games were called off to-day there was plenty of baseball. The Giants and Brooklyns play in New York and the other games of the schedule were pulled off.

SHARP CONTEST NOW ON IN GREAT TOUR RACE

The whole country is interested in the great voting contest to decide the most popular school boys and school girls of New England to participate in the BOSTON AMERICAN'S world-wide vacation tours.

The New England boys are determined that the two teams which will start from Boston to circle the globe shall beat their rivals from New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles and establish a new record.

The girls are deeply interested and are working might and main not alone to help themselves, but also to help the boys in the task they have set for themselves to beat the representative school boys of the country. One and all declare that New England must win.

Boys and girls who join now may jump into the lead at once. Voting will continue until schools close for the vacation season. The selection of the winners will be by popular vote of the readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN. Get after the votes. Get after subscriptions, so that you may pile up votes by the thousand.

Voting coupons may be found on Page 2 of this and every edition of the AMERICAN. ANYTHING IN YOUR EYE? Many people who come to us for eyes examinations imagine that there is some foreign substance in their eyes.

It is sometimes hard to convince them that these gritty, sandy, scratching, irritating conditions are symptoms and effects due to refractive errors which may be corrected by the use of proper glasses. Let us take the grit out.

EYE DISEASE CURED

Mr. Ralph Rohr, 11 Beech Glen St., Roxbury, Mass., says: "For 15 years I had trouble with my eyes. They would smart and burn, and felt as though there was sand in them. My eyes would tire easily when reading, and dark spots would float before them. Sometimes I would see dark lines or bars. I would feel tired at night and my head would ache. A bright light would cause my eyes to ache. All this time I thought my trouble was due to stomach trouble, and I was treated by a number of different doctors, but I did not get better until I was treated by the Osmo-Chemic Physicians, who told me that my trouble was due to trouble with my eyes. They prescribed the proper treatment and cured me."—Signed, RALPH ROHR.

COUNCIL ANGRY AT MATTHEWS FOR NEW SLUR

"He (the seeker for information) will note also something worse yet: The gradual but steady increase in the amount of city money spent nominally for public service, but really given away, in the form of unnecessary employment and excessive salaries for the political and personal benefit of the Mayor and members of the City Council.

"He will find the facts there. (In the reports of the Finance Commission.) But he will have difficulty in seeing the reports themselves, for the present City Council—IN MANY RESPECTS THE WORST WE HAVE EVER HAD—has until lately refused to print them."

These are extracts from a statement made public to-day by former Mayor Nathan Matthews in support of his declaration at the meeting of the Medical Library last week, that the government of Boston is the most corrupt and debased in the world.

Mr. Matthews was severely criticized in the press and by members of the Boston Board of Aldermen for his sensational utterance. This brought forth his reply today in which he contends that the reports of the Finance Commission justify his statements.

Members of the present City Council today resented Mr. Matthews's second attack as warmly as they did his former one. They declare that his characterization of the present City Council is unjust and unwarranted. They also assert that Mr. Matthews is too vague and has not produced the "facts" to sustain his contention. Here is what some of them have to say:

Alderman Matthew Hale, who tutored President Roosevelt's son, Theodore, and who was known as the "President's candidate" for the board, said:

Hale Wants Facts.

"I would like more facts instead of assertions. While I have been a member of the Board of Aldermen I have yet to discover a single instance of corruption either in its deliberations or actions. I admit that the principal crime that members have been guilty of is in disagreeing with ex-Mayor Matthews on some matters."

Alderman W. Dudley Cotton, Jr., who is serving his second year in the board, said:

"As far as ex-Mayor Matthews's statement that the present City Council held up the publication of the Finance Commission's reports, I can say that the investigating body passed officially out of existence on January 31 and on February 1. I introduced an order, which was passed in the board, calling for the printing of this report."

Alderman Charles Carr, a lawyer and Good Government member, said:

"Ex-Mayor Matthews has not met the issue at all. All his charges are based upon the reports of the Finance Commission which did not touch the present city government at all and which only considered briefly the acts of the city government of last year."

Arnold Saw no Graft.

Councilman Seth F. Arnold said:

"I have been a member of the city government for the past two years. Graft and corruption, if they have existed in the body of which I am a member, have escaped my notice."

$372 IN BENEFITS.

What good work is being done by the Leopold Morse Company Mutual Benefit Association, reports for the year made at the annual meeting last night reveal. There are ninety members in the association, all employes of the Leopold Morse Company. Last year $372 were distributed for the benefit of members. The officers for next year are: S. Simons, president; M. Marks, vice-president; J. Smith, secretary; J. J. Delea, treasurer; C. D. Cole, A. D. Dimmick, A. F. Ripley, M. Ascher, Anna Sanger, trustees.

FREE TO THE SICK

This month free consultation and examination without feeling of the pulse or receiving any information from the patient. Will tell your disease at a glance, whether it is curable or not, and what course to pursue. I have now been in Boston for 35 years and in Salem for 5 years. Hundreds have been cured, in Boston, Salem, Peabody, Danvers, Beverly and other cities. Why not you? Talk with those who have been cured of tumors, cancers, kidney trouble, diabetes, Bright's disease, cystitis, bladder diseases, indigestion, dyspepsia, female complaints, fits, dropsy, and, in fact, all chronic diseases. This is your chance. No matter what other doctors say, or if hospitals turn you away, call and see Dr. Liverpool, at No. 589 Tremont St., every day except Wednesdays and Thursdays, or at 219 Essex St., Salem, on every Wednesday and Thursday, Rooms 9-10. Main office, 589 Tremont St., Boston. Telephone Tremont 1725-1. Hours 1-4 7-8. Sundays, 10-2.

MRS. LONGWORTH IS TEMPORARILY OUT OF SOCIETY

Mrs. Longworth, from a snapshot taken in Boston when she attended a Harvard football game last Fall.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—In all the capital gaiety of the brilliant social season just closing, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, usually a leader in the vivacity of ballrooms and reception parlor, has been strangely inconspicuous.

The real reason, while guessed at, did not become known until to-day when it was told with some authority that Mrs. Longworth had retired to devote her time temporarily to a study of domestic science, dressmaking and languages.

The domestic science course is rather general in character, but the other two embrace a special line of study. For instance, so reliable report declares, the dressmaking class mainly concerns the architecture and construction of an exquisite French layette of finest laces and softest satins, while the language department is devoted chiefly to baby-talk.

BLOODLESS SURGERY—Extraordinary way of cutting out the appendix without pain or the use of the knife. Methods detailed in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

LINER WITTEKIND REPORTED ASHORE

BALTIMORE, April 15.—A dispatch from Cape Henry to-day reports a steamship, supposed to be the Wittekind of the North German Lloyd line, ashore near Cape Carles City, Va. The Wittekind sailed from Baltimore yesterday for Bremen with passengers and cargo.

JORDAN LOSES FIGHT FOR HIS WIFE'S BODY

Counsel for Chester S. Jordan, who have been fighting to secure possession of the body of Jordan's wife, Mrs. Honora Jordan, were refused that demand to-day by Judge Charles U. Bell in the Middlesex County Superior Criminal Court. In their struggle to save their client from the electric chair, the attorneys for Jordan asked the court for the right to have the dead woman's body examined by medical experts retained by the defence.

At the same time Judge Bell overruled the motion made last Tuesday by General Charles W. Bartlett, Harvey N. Pratt and Jeremiah S. Sullivan, counsel for Jordan, for an order compelling District-Attorney John J. Higgins to allow them to inspect the reports of Medical Examiners Durell and Swan, the copy of Jordan's alleged confession to the police and other documents in the possession of the government.

Counsel for Jordan, who is to be placed on trial next Tuesday in Cambridge on the charge of slaying his wife, will now appeal from the decisions of Judges Wentworth of Somerville and Bell of the Superior Court to the Supreme Court.

Jordan was arraigned to-day for the second time to plead to the charge of murdering his wife because of his second indictment. He was taken from the prison to the courtroom by Deputy Sheriffs Tucker and Eveleth. He appeared much more nervous than at his previous arraignment.

Jordan pleaded "Not guilty!" Then Lawyer Harvey H. Pratt renewed his fight to have the indictment quashed and to have the case thrown out of court because of non-jurisdiction. Judge Bell denied the motion to quash the indictment and overruled the motion in connection with jurisdiction.

THREE MINERS DIE IN GAS EXPLOSION

FAIRMOUNT, W. Va., April 15.—In a gas explosion this morning at No. 2 shaft mine of the Georges Creek Coal & Iron Company at Farmington three miners met death. After the explosion the mine caught fire, but all the miners have been accounted for.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

CONVICT GOODS BILL IS KILLED

The Nason bill for labelling convict-made goods sold in this State was knocked out in the House to-day by a roll-call the vote of 105 to 105. The bill provided that all convict labor goods in this State or imported from other States to be sold in the open market should be labelled "Convict-made," with the name of the prison and the date. The Committee on Prisons reported it.

PROTEST AGAINST GRADE CROSSINGS

A large delegation of prominent citizens of East Boston was before the Railroad Commissioners to-day urging that the grade crossings at Orient Heights, Harbor View, Maverick street and Marginal street be abolished. All these crossings are on the road of the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad.

Our Friday Three-Hour Sales

OUR DAILY CROWDS might naturally lead one to think we were giving our goods away, but we are merely selling at the low cash prices of Houghton & Dutton Co. Could we ask a more emphatic indorsement of our cash methods? Should we have such a response to our ads. if the people did not have confidence in our values? We never had so great a Spring business before, and there were never so good reasons for it. One of the reasons you will find in these prices, cut even below our regular scale, as usual, for Friday.

MRS. TAFT IS COMING SOON TO NEW HOME

Mrs. William H. Taft, wife of the President, is expected at Woodbury's Point, Beverly, in a few days to look over the Stetson Cottage, which the Presidential family is to occupy for the Summer. While the home is in first-class condition and fully furnished, it is probable that Mrs. Taft may suggest some minor changes and some decorations.

Repairs are being made on the pier leading out to the float for landing guests who come by water. The pier really needs strengthening, leaving aside the well-known weight of the President.

The cottage has been opened, the curtains raised and all air and sunlight allowed to enter to brighten and freshen it after being closed for the Winter. Chair covers have been removed and other housewifely preparations are being made. The lawns, growing bright and green under the April showers, will be rolled to a velvety smoothness. The walks will be newly gravelled.

Before the President arrives on June 5, a new American flag will be sent to the cottage, ready to be flown from the cottage staff to indicate that the national capitol is in Beverly for the Summer and that the cottage is the temporary White House.

Meanwhile Beverly and its Summer colony is preparing to extend every courtesy to the nation's chief and his family. President Arthur A. Forness of the Beverly Board of Trade has written to the White House offering the board's rooms in the Mason block for executive offices.

All the exclusive social organizations will extend honorary membership to Mr. Taft, such as the Jubilee Yacht Club, the Essex County Club, the Myopia Hunt Club and the Montserrat Golf Club. The latter clubs will doubtless attract the President on account of their golfing privileges. There are no finer links on the Atlantic coast than the Myopia.

TUMOR KILLS EDUCATOR.

CINCINNATI, O., April 15.—R. N. Roark, president of the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School of Richmond, Ky., died here to-day of tumor of the brain.

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR KIDNEYS

Pain in the back, rheumatic pains, frequent and scanty urination, and pains in groin are nature's warnings that the kidneys are deranged, and should have immediate attention, or serious illness, such as Bright's disease or diabetes are likely to follow.

The following prescription is known to be one of the most effective obtainable for quick relief and permanent restoration of the kidneys and bladder. "Half ounce fluid extract Buchu; half ounce Murax compound; six ounces of good gin. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal." Any druggist can mix or furnish the ingredients of this prescription. Standard Chemical Co., Chicago.

REVISE TARIFF IN PHILIPPINES URGES TAFT

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The following message from President Taft upon the question of a tariff for the Philippines, accompanied by letters to the President from the Secretary of War and General C. R. Edwards, chief of the bureau of insular affairs of the War Department, was read before Congress to-day. The document was prepared yesterday before the President left for New York:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Secretary of War, inclosing one from the chief of the bureau of insular affairs, in which is transmitted a proposed tariff revision law for the Philippine Islands.

This measure revises the present Philippine tariff, simplifies it and makes it conform as nearly as possible to the regulations of the customs laws of the United States, especially with respect to packing and packages.

The present Philippine regulations have become cumbersome and difficult for American merchants and exporters to comply with. Its purpose is to meet the new conditions that will arise under the section of the pending United States tariff bill, which provides, within certain limitations, for free trade between the United States and the islands. It is drawn with a view to preserving to the islands as much customs revenue as possible and to protect in a reasonable measure those industries which now exist in the islands.

The bill now transmitted has been drawn by a board of tariff experts, of which the insular collector of customs, Colonel George R. Colton, was the president. The board held a great many open meetings in Manila and conferred fully with representatives of all business interests in the Philippine Islands. It is of great importance to the welfare of the islands that the bill should be passed at the same time with the pending Payne bill, with special reference to the provisions of which it was prepared.

I respectfully recommend that this bill be enacted at the present session of Congress as one incidental to and required by the passage of the Payne bill.

(Signed) WILLIAM H. TAFT
The White House, April 14, 1909.

PART OF DOUGLAS PLANT TO MARLBORO

BROCKTON, April 15.—About one-tenth of the shoe machinery in the Montello plant of the W. L. Douglas Shoe Company is being moved to equip factory B of the two-factory plant in Marlboro.

Report spread about Brockton to-day that all the machinery was being shipped away, and that the Montello factory was to be closed, thus ending the Douglas connection with Brockton. General Superintendent Herbert T. Drake of the Montello factory refused to-day to talk, but it was learned from other sources that only enough machinery is being sent away to fit out one factory in Marlboro. The Montello factory is turning out 250 cases a day now.

BOSTON BANKERS GIVE 'GOLDEN BRIDE' COSTLY NECKLACE

Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer.

Among the most princely wedding gifts to Miss Harriet Stewart Brown of Baltimore, who was married yesterday in that city to T. Suffern Tailer, the New York clubman and banker, was a diamond necklace from Kidder, Peabody & Company, the Boston bankers. The Boston firm has close financial connections with Tailer & Company of Pine street, New York, the bridegroom's banking house.

This necklace is a gift eminently suited to the beauty and social distinction of the bride. It is just two yards in length and contains 240 selected stones.

There was a dazzling array of presents displayed at the Brown mansion in Baltimore during the wedding festivities, including gold and silver plate, cut glass of rare and costly design, jewels and jewelled ornaments and checks in big figures.

BLOODLESS SURGERY—Extraordinary way of cutting out the appendix without pain or the use of the knife. Methods detailed in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

STAGE STARS TO AID CLARA MORRIS

NEW YORK, April 15.—A remarkable programme has been arranged for the Clara Morris benefit at the New York Theatre to-morrow afternoon. Practically every actor and actress of importance in New York will take some part.

Wilton Lackaye will deliver an address. William A. Brady will present Act II. of "Divorcons," with his powerful cast. Chauncey Olcott, the Irish tenor, will sing two numbers. Then will come the piece de resistance, Act II. of "Lady Windermere's Fan," with Edwin Arden, William Courtney, Virginia Harnard and E. M. Holland. "The Real Thing," by John Kendrick Bangs, will be played by members of the Twelfth Night Club.

Clara Morris will appear in the sleepwalking scene from "Macbeth."

LACK OF CASH CUTS DOWN STATE TROOPS

CONCORD, N. H., April 15.—Because the Legislature appropriated only $54,000 of the $74,000 necessary to carry the State militia, Governor Quinby to-day was forced to cut down the State forces, retire many of the brigade officers, and drop one of the two State bands. Colonels Arthur J. Shattuck of Nashua and Edmund Tetley of Laconia are retired. Major Paul F. Babbidge of Keene has been appointed colonel, Major Harley B. Roby to be lieutenant-colonel, Major Michael J. Harley of Manchester to be first major, Captain William E. Sullivan to be second major, and Captain Oscar J. Poie to be third major. The brigade headquarters have been abolished and eight companies of infantry have been disbanded. Four companies, which have been retained, will be organized into batteries of coast artillery, and will be stationed at Portsmouth, Dover, Exeter and Laconia.

ROOSEVELT AT ADEN, MAY STOP TO GO HUNTING

Special Cable to Boston American.

ADEN, April 15.—The steamer Admiral, which is bearing former President Roosevelt to Africa, arrived here to-day at 10 o'clock. The trip was without incident.

A great number of people gathered at the pier, all anxious for a glimpse of him. Among them were many English and Americans. A number of American and English tourists who happened to be near at the time journeyed to Aden especially to welcome Colonel Roosevelt.

Several members of the party are planning to come ashore here and go on a shooting expedition to secure specimens of the local birds, as they have done at several of the other ports touched at on the way out.

The run down the Red Sea from Suez was fairly cool, but yesterday and to-day the weather was hot, with a brilliant sun and a smooth sea.

Frederick C. Selous, the well-known author and big game hunter, has accompanied the Roosevelt party from Naples. Mr. Roosevelt has spent several hours every day listening to recitals of his experiences on his African hunting trip. Mr. Selous has been invited by Mr. Roosevelt to join the party for a two weeks' shoot, and he probably will accept.

MOMBASA, British East Africa, April 15.—Owing to an outbreak of smallpox at Nairobi, which has already caused forty deaths in the quarantine camp, and the spread of the disease to the ranch of George McMillan, who was to have been the host of ex-President Theodore Roosevelt during a part of his stay in this section, it is feared Mr. Roosevelt's plans for an early start for the hunting grounds may be delayed. Three cases of the disease are reported from the Juja ranch, where Mr. Roosevelt was to have been a guest. If the disease is not stamped out before April 21, when the steamer Admiral, with the ex-President aboard reaches Mombasa, it is likely there will be a change in the plans for his entertainment.

"SONG SHOP" CARRIES ALL POPULAR HITS

To-day is a great occasion to lovers of music who make it a point to keep the very latest and the most "catchy" songs on their music racks, for "The Song Shop," No. 591 Washington street, is holding its opening. Jerome H. Remick & Co., the proprietors of the up-to-date music store, have made especial preparations for this event, and have added to the large stock they always carry until there's absolutely no song worth having that can't be purchased there. A full line of souvenir and art post cards is also displayed. You'll find the latest New York craze, Billiken statues and Billiken coins, at the 'Song Shop' also.

FIRST SUSPENSION IN THE COAL FIELD

MAHANOY CITY, Pa., April 15.—The first formal suspension of operations in the anthracite field came last night in an order from the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company closing down every washery in the region indefinitely. These plants turned out coal in steam sizes. The suspension does not apply to the big producing collieries, though there is a rumor that several are likely to be closed.

WOMAN STABS CHIEF; SCISSORS WEAPON

CHICAGO, April 15.—Chief of Police Shaffer of Evanston was stabbed in the face and severely injured to-day by a woman, believed to be demented. The woman, Miss Esther Molina, No. 828 Hinman avenue, Evanston, attacked him with a pair of scissors when the chief endeavored to take her into custody.

BROKEN WIRE TIES UP SUBWAY CARS

By the breaking of a short section of the overhead trolley wire on the outward bound track of the Park street subway at 9:20 o'clock to-day a short tie-up of the cars occurred. There were not many waiting passengers, and beyond a fright by sparks no panic ensued.

ARMENIANS MASSACRED IN ASIA MINOR

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 15.—A massacre of Armenians is in progress to-day at Mersina, a seaport of Asia Minor, on the Mediterranean.

Enraged at the murder of two Moslems by an Armenian and the fact that the assassin was not apprehended, the Mohammedan population of Mersina, which counts a total of 10,000 inhabitants, took the law into its hands and attacked the Armenian quarters.

The Christian communities of Mersina are appealing to the consuls here for help.

Two American missions are represented at Mersina.

The church records of 1907 show that the Rev. C. A. Dodds, the Rev. R. J. Dodds and Miss Evadna M. Sterrett were stationed at Mersina.

STEEL 'JOKER' IN PAYNE BILL

WASHINGTON, April 15.—A little joker is said to have just been discovered in paragraph 119 of the iron and steel schedule of the Payne tariff bill. It was inserted by the Senate Finance Committee. It is very innocent and would hardly attract attention from the average congressman. An insurgent Republican member is responsible for bringing the joker to light. Paragraph 119 provides as follows:

> Beams, girders, joists, angles, channels, car truck channels, T T columns and posts or parts or sections of columns and posts, deck and bulb beams and building forms, together with all other structural shapes of iron or steel, whether plain or punched for use, three-tenths of one cent per pound.

This was quite a cut as compared with the Dingley rate, but the Senate Finance Committee amended it by raising the tariff to four-tenths of a cent a pound and struck out the words "whether plain or punched" and substituted "but not assembled or manufactured, or advanced beyond hammering, rolling or casting." By striking out the word "or punched" the iron or steel structural material gets caught in the basket clause and has to pay an additional tariff of 20 per cent. ad valorem.

6 FISHERMEN LOSE LIVES

GLOUCESTER, April 15.—Six brave fishermen are believed to have perished at sea. When the schooner Mooween of Duxbury, which sails out of Boston and is the high-liner of the fresh halibut fleet, rounded Eastern Point to-day with flag at half-mast it was learned that three dory crews had been missing for a week.

They were lost in a fog ninety miles east of Cape Breton on Thursday last and were adrift on a wild sea during a heavy gale a few hours after the thick mist cut them off from their vessel.

The missing men are:

Otto Whynot, thirty years old, with a wife and two children, living on Sheppard street, Gloucester.

James McDonald, forty years old, unmarried, of Canso, Nova Scotia.

Owen Hutchins, thirty-eight years old, unmarried, of Portland, Me.

Thomas White, thirty-eight years old, a native of Margaree, Cape Breton, has a wife and three children living on Wharf street, Gloucester.

John Anderson, thirty-five years old, of Denmark.

Owen Dauphney, thirty years old, of St. Margaret's Bay, near Halifax, Nova Scotia.

"I fear all are lost," said Captain Daniel McDonald of the Mooween.

29 FAMILIES IN NEW YORK BLAZE

NEW YORK, April 15.—Delay in turning in an alarm resulted in twenty-eight families being trapped in a five-story double tenement house at Nos. 100 and 102 East One Hundred and Third street, early today, while fire roared beneath them. The tenants fled to the fire escapes, but as the flames were beneath they dared not descend. When the firemen arrived extension ladders were run up, and men, women and children were carried down to the street. The firemen made quick work of the blaze.

FIND MISSING HAINES WITNESS

NEW YORK, April 15.—One of the most dramatic scenes preliminary to the trial of Captain Peter C. Hains, on next Monday, comes to-day in the office of District-Attorney Dewitt, in Flushing, when witnesses for the prosecution re-enact the circumstances surrounding the killing of William E. Annis.

The prosecution was elated to-day over the discovery and subpoenaing of a missing witness, who is considered one of the strongest against the prisoner. The man is John Tonning, formerly steward at the Bayside Yacht Club, who disappeared shortly before the trial of T. Jenkins Hains. He was found in Brooklyn.

Tonning was on the float at the time of the tragedy and it was he who dragged Annis from the water after the shooting. Tonning, according to statements made prior to the trial of T. Jenkins Hains, heard Annis say to Captain Hains:

"Captain, you've made a mistake. You've shot the wrong man."

The complete rehearsal of the Bayside tragedy is held so that there will be no hitch in the case for the prosecution, who plans to send the army captain to the chair.

60 CIGARETTES A DAY FOR CARUSO

NEW YORK, April 15.—Enrico Caruso, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, has sailed for Europe on the Mauretania, and there are many patrons of grand opera who wonder if the singer will ever again appear on the stage. To the claim that his voice has given out because he has smoked too many cigarettes, Caruso said:

"Cigarettes! They do not hurt the voice. Why, I smoke fifty or sixty a day. My voice will be all right again."

'IRELAND AND HER PEOPLE'

"Ireland and Her People" is the title of a book from the press of the Fitzgerald Book Company of Chicago. It was prepared and edited by Thomas W. H. Fitzgerald. The contents are biographical and give very instructive and interesting accounts of many celebrated sons and daughters of the Green Isle. The volume has 400 pages and is illustrated.

TAILORS USE IDEAL PLANS

Model workrooms that are equipped with the newest and most improved methods of ventilation, lighting and heating and are immaculate, can be seen in the tailoring establishment of Sullivan Brothers at No. 42 Summer street, where made-to-order and ready-to-wear clothing is produced under ideal conditions.

Business men and philanthropists, who are interested in the health and welfare of the thousands of men and women employed in the tailoring shops of Greater Boston, might with advantage study the way in which this firm has met the problem. The workrooms, the showrooms and the salesrooms are as spick and span as the parlor or reception hall in the best regulated household. The 100 employes are happy and healthy. They work under the rays of the sun and breathe sweet, pure air.

On the lower floor of the establishment are the salesroom, office and fitting rooms. Over 400 patterns of the latest styles of woolens are invitingly displayed on as many stands, for Sullivan Brothers' stock is equal to that of many of the large wholesale woolen houses. Young men and older men can choose between the large assortment and have an opportunity of seeing all of the cloths displayed. The military department is on this floor, under the supervision of Major John J. Sullivan. The commodious fitting rooms are on the same floor.

The wonderful business that has been built up is the result of years of study and work on the part of the three brothers, John J., Dennis P. and Daniel P. Sullivan, all of whom served their apprenticeship in the large, old-time Boston wholesale clothing houses. Their establishment and their business is the fruit of years of labor.

DANISH ENVOY TO SUMMER IN NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., April 15.—Count Carl Moltke, Danish Minister to the United States, will rent a villa here this Summer and join the fashionable colony. Countess Moltke, who is the daughter of Nathaniel Thayer of Boston, will lead in the social activities of the resort. The Russian Embassy will be established at Newport this Summer. The Von Moltkes may decide to rent "The Ledges," owned by the estate of Robert M. Cushing of Boston.

FEAR MISTRIAL ON M'CULLOUGH

Judge DeCourcey caused a sensation today in the case against ex-Councilman Leo F. McCullough and Attorney James T. Cassidy, who are charged with conspiracy to defraud the city of Boston and larceny from the city, when he halted the trial until next Tuesday saying that he would not start on the hearing now lest "a suspension over Sunday might result in a mistrial." This is the first of the cases to be brought to trial as a result of the Finance Commission inquiry.

When the case was called to-day Attorney John P. Feeney, counsel for McCullough, had all ten witnesses who had testified before the Grand Jury present to support his motion to quash the indictment on the ground that the witnesses were all in the Grand Jury room at the same time.

Judge DeCourcey inquired as to the probable length of the trial. Counsel for both sides agreed that the trial would last three days.

SUNDAY SERVICES PLANNED BY JEWS

Whether the traditional Jewish Sabbath, which has been observed all over the world for centuries, is to be abolished or continued in conjunction with the present Sunday services at Temple Israel, Commonwealth avenue, will be decided at a meeting of the members of the congregation, which is to be held Sunday afternoon. The meeting was called by President Daniel Frank and the Board of Trustees of Temple Israel at the request of Rabbi Charles Fleischer, who for two years has advocated the abolition of the Saturday morning services since Sunday morning services were inaugurated and have been very largely attended. The question to be decided is:

"What shall be done regarding Saturday morning services in Temple Israel after this season?"

The question has aroused much comment and a spirited meeting is expected.

FIND WOMAN'S BODY IN RIVER

AMESBURY, April 15.—The police recovered the body of Mrs. Mary Morrill from the Powow river early to-day. Medical-Examiner Daniel Murphy will perform an autopsy to learn, if possible, if the woman was a victim of foul play. The body was dragged from the river near the wharf of the Biddle-Smart Automobile works where Frank Dow, watchman of the plant, says she stood when she jumped into the stream.

Dow says he heard Mrs. Morrill scream hysterically and when he ran towards her she jumped into the water.

"She had screamed like a woman in danger or in great distress. I don't know why," said Dow.

"My first impulse was to jump into the river to save her but then I thought if I did we both would drown. I threw a plank into the water and yelled to her to grab hold of it. But I don't believe she heard me. She must have gone down at once."

STORE IS LOOTED; PRISONER HELD

Charged with breaking and entering the tobacco store at No. 230 Main street, Charlestown, Charles MacGaffney, aged twenty-eight, living at No. 1 Allen place, in that district, was held to-day in the sum of $700. In addition to stealing 150 cigars, 100 pennies and several lots of tobacco, it is charged that MacGaffney broke open the gas meter and stole $2.25 from the machine, as well as seventy-five pounds of lead pipe.

TAFT AT YALE; BRINGS GIFT

NEW HAVEN, April 15.—President Taft arrived here at 11:07 a. m. to attend the meeting of the Yale Corporation. A crowd was at the station when the train pulled in.

Mr. Taft was met by Secretary Stokes of Yale in an automobile and was driven to Woodbridge Hall for the session of the corporation. The President brought with him the Yale class ivy for the class of 1909. It was from the White House grounds and will be planted at commencement by the seniors. President Taft had luncheon at the home of President Hadley.

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper.

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they will cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing down feelings, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But thousands of irritable, nervous, tired and broken-down women have restored their health and strength by the use of Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

Swamp-Root brings new life and activity to the kidneys, the cause of such troubles.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy, will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, may address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and receive sample bottle free by mail. You can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at all drug stores.

BREEDERS RAISE FUND TO SAVE RACING GAME

By ED CURLEY.

NEW YORK, April 15.—In their effort to upbuild the turf, a meeting of some of the most prominent owners and breeders in this country was held at the office of the Jockey Club and plans were formulated for the distribution of the vast sum subscribed by the real supporters of the sport.

The fund is now over the $100,000 mark, and from the contributions to come in later it is safe to estimate that $300,000 will be at the disposal of the committee in charge.

It was definitely decided that the five associations which have announced their schedules for the coming season will receive $20,000 for the Spring meetings, to be divided as follows: One event with $5,000 added, four with $2,500 added, and five with $1,000 added. The financial support to be rendered by this committee will be of inestimable benefit to the several clubs. With the sport in its present unsettled condition the drain on the revenues will be so great that nothing but losses stare them in the face and the help of the breeders will save them from at least a part of the deficit which may occur.

James B. Haggin, the millionaire horseman and the largest breeder in the world, was elected temporary chairman of the meeting and will be the master hand in all operations. A committee composed of Clarence Mackay and Andrew Miller was formed to consult with the officials of the various tracks to arrange the conditions of the stakes to be guaranteed by the committee.

The programme of stakes to be guaranteed by this fund for the Westchester Racing Association's meeting at Belmont Park was accepted and approved.

In addition to Mr. Haggin there were present F. C. Bishop, O. M. Bishop, H. B. Duryea, Frederick Johnson, H. T. Oxnard and H. K. Knapp (represented). The move on the part of these indicates that the sport will be conducted on a higher plane than was ever known in the history of the racing game. At the same time it will be a big boon to the thousands of horse owners who have to depend upon the turf for a livelihood.

The fund will be handled in such a manner that when the Fall season approaches there will be plenty of money left to support the game during the closing meetings.

JACK TWIN MAY BOX KETCHELL

Jack Twin Sullivan does not intend to let Stanley Ketchell overlook him while the Michigan lad holds the middleweight championship as the Cambridge glove merchant will force him into a contest for six rounds in Philadelphia or twelve rounds at the Armory A. A. in this city. Ketchell has already promised Sullivan a match. The last tife the pair met on the Coast Jack was fouled in the twentieth round, but Ketchell was awarded the decision. Sullivan made 156 pounds for the Westerner which weakened him and he challenges him now at the middleweight limit which is 158 pounds.

JOHNNY HAYES MEETS 2 AT BANGOR TO-NIGHT

BANGOR, Me., April 15.—This town will have a Marathon race to-night, although it is only a fifteen-mile affair. Johnny Hayes, winner of the big Marathon race at the Olympic championships at London, Eng., last Summer, is the star, and will race against two men. Pat Dineen and Johnny Neary will be Hayes's opponents. Neary is the Natick, Mass., boy who has done exceedingly well in the B. A. A. Marathon runs, and who is making his debut as a professional.

Hayes is better and speedier and faster than ever before in his life. He will run the full distance, while Neary and Dineen will each run seven and a half miles.

"CYCLONE" DOWNS ITALIAN CHAMPION

"Cyclone" Burns of Norwood won an easy victory over the much-touted Selva, the latest Italian heavyweight champion, in their catch-as-catch-can wrestling match at the Columbia last night. Burns adopted his usual tactics when up against heavier men, and outspeeded him and forced the going from the start. He went so fast that Selva had little opportunity to show what he could do on the offensive, as he only got behind his man once, and then only for a few minutes, as Burns worked so fast on the defensive that Selva lost his hold on him.

Burns won in straight falls, with a face hold and barlock, the first fall in seven minutes and the second in eleven.

In justice to Selva it should be said that he is a Graeco-Roman wrestler, and did not appear familiar with the catch game, depending on his extra weight and strength to pull him through. But he could not cope with Burns's speed and science.

Next week's match will have somewhat of an intercollegiate flavor, and will be between Carl Anderson, ex-middleweight amateur champion and wrestling instructor at Harvard, and Ernest Siegfried, wrestling instructor at Columbia University.

DOVES AND RED SOX GAME OFF

No game to-day—wet grounds.

That's the announcement made over the telephone from the Boston National League Club's office to-day.

The heavy rain of Wednesday night and this morning made the mud a foot thick and it would have been next to impossible to do anything but flounder around in the park.

Big Mike Bowerman was down at the Paddock Building offices talking with President Dovey and Secretary Dovey this morning. He held off from deciding about the game until the last moment.

In Philadelphia the new baseball grounds were so saturated that play was hopeless and the Red Sox-Athletic game was promptly declared off.

FRANK GOTCH WINS BOUT WITH MAHMOUT

CHICAGO, April 15.—Frank Gotch tonight retained the world's championship by defeating Youssef Mahmout in straight falls at Dexter Park pavilion, throwing the Sultan's subject in eight minutes and nine minutes and ten seconds.

Not only did the champion not have to resort to his noted toe-grip, but he showed conclusively that he was the master at every stage of the game. All of Mahmout's boasted strength availed nothing when Gotch brought his muscles into play, and the champion fairly crumpled his opponent in his grasp when he went after him at top speed.

If it only took seventeen minutes to decide whether the championship should remain in America it was seventeen minutes full of action. Gotch got after his man from the start, and Mahmout seemed willing to mix things. But when he did it was to be crushed in Gotch's grip.

About 12,000 persons were present, hundreds standing or clinging to girders. According to the promoters, the aggregate receipts amounted to $35,000.

AMERICANS CLEAN UP VIENNA RACES

The first week's racing at the Vienna, Austria, Spring meeting furnished high class sport, in spite of rain and cold weather. Al. Pennock started his season by winning a good race with Willy, the fast son of Wilburn M., the event being the Prize of Vincennes, worth about $700, at a distance of 2,200 meters. Ira Ryerson landed five races, which, added to his winnings on the opening day, makes seven races to his credit so far. His horses are in great shape, and it looks as if he will keep his winning luck throughout the season. The feature event won by Ira was the Trial Race worth $1,200, his winner being Feri, the black stallion by E. L. Robinson, while Fanny, a daughter of the same sire, won a $500 purse, the distance in both events being 2,500 meters. H. Brown and Armstrong won the remaining two events on the card.

BLUMENTHAL HAS STABLE OF FLYERS

HARTFORD, Ct., April 15.—Dick Blumenthal's racing string will soon be turned over to Trainer William Crozier, and will be developed at Charter Oak Park. He has three especially good prospects and another will be added in a short time. Major Strong, 2:21, is expected to show in 2:05 this season. He worked a mile in 2:10 last year. The big trotter Berton Oliver, 2:22¼, is good enough to go down the grand circuit, and there is where Mr. Blumenthal expects to send him. Barondale will be raced at the local meetings. She has no mark, but has a trial of 2:21½. Mr. Blumenthal has a trotter purchased, and which he thinks will arrive in Hartford in a few days, that he expects great things from. He has worked in 2:14½.

WALLIS AGAIN STROKE OF YALE VARSITY CREW

NEW HAVEN, Ct., April 15.—Following the return home of the Yale crew from the race with the University of Pennsylvania there was a reorganization of the eight to-day in preparation for the Harvard regatta.

Captain Howe retired from the stroke oar position, going back to No. 6, where he has rowed for two seasons. As he weighs 190 pounds he was far from an ideal stroke theoretically.

Hyde, who has been No. 6, went to No. 4 and Ben Wallis, who has been No. 4, went to stroke. Wallis stroked the varsity four which won from Harvard last year, Yale's only victory at New London.

He lives in Waltham, Mass., and weighs 160 pounds. It is thought that the crew, as now reorganized, will be little or not at all changed before the regatta with Harvard.

JOHNSON FALLS TO THE WILES OF WILLUS BRITT

BY TAD.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Willis Britt and James W. Coffroth did the trick.

Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion of the world, and Stanley Ketchell, holder of middleweight honors (thanks to Sam Langford's bashfulness), were made here to box twenty rounds at Colma, Cal., on the 12th of October.

When the managers of the different heavyweight contenders met here the other day it was agreed to let the matter of matchmaking go over until another meeting, and the thing would be settled. Sam Langford, the man Ketchell dodged, was to be here. Al Kaufman, who agreed to stop Ketchell was to be here and Jack Johnson, the champion, was to be here; also Willis Britt, the "boy bandit," as he is called in the West.

As to point of size Kaufman was the man who really should have faced Johnson. As to fighting ability the sports thought Sam Langford could lick them all. As to drawing the money in the box office Jim Coffroth thought that Ketchell was the prize.

Johnson said that they all should fight it out, and that he would meet the winner. Everyone was satisfied, except the "boy bandit," who was strong for a fight with Johnson.

Mr. Coffroth is in town and Willis dug him up. Then they, in turn, dug up Mr. Johnson. This all happened Tuesday night. For five hours the "boy bandit," the "Barnum of matchmakers," as James is called, and Mr. Johnson chirped. Michael Angelo never painted such a picture as Willis did to Johnson.

Johnson never heard half the beautiful things about himself that the "Barnum of matchmakers" told him.

Lil Artha fell. Who wouldn't? He agreed to box Mr. Ketchell and let the other fellows go.

John L. Sullivan's Column

The prospects of a big championship battle seems to revive the boxing game as nothing else will, and that battle in Australia for the heavyweight crown, so-called, gave a big stimulus to the sport which was lagging a bit because of something was needed to wake the game up.

The papers have had more pugilistic literature for the past few months than for as many years before, as the heavyweight question has aroused everybody and they want to see some settlement of the situation.

But the squabbling among the big fellows has certainly caused a lot of expenditure of printers' ink and held the closest attention of every true American, even if the discussions sometimes became tiresome.

The winning of Johnson over Burns caused Jeffries to come out of retirement, and once the old gladiator got busy and signified his intention of battling once more, the interest was intensified. The fact that the white champion would come to the rescue and save the race from the disgrace by letting a negro hold the top place in the class caused the greatest joy in the minds of everybody, whether he cared for ring sport or not. Then the stirring up by the other prominent fighters chasing after Johnson's scalp allowed for plenty of speculation on the chances of the different candidates, and the scope of interest gradually increased till now the whole world is involved and matches on the other side of the globe are as freely talked of as intercity contests were formerly.

Even the balloon like purses, offered for one of the blue ribbon matches that are in sight, has caused considerable comment and the financiers are forced to take notice, some of them itching to get in the game themselves and take a flyer at running one of the attractions, which is sure to prove a money getter.

Personally I have tried all my life to make boxing the leading sport of the world and though I battled my way to the top in the bare knuckle days I agreed to meet Corbett under the Marquis of Queensberry rules and am convinced now that they are the most satisfactory compared with the old London prize ring code, which had its bad features in helping glove sport along.

Box Artists Who 'Haven't a Thing'

This is what Addie Joss has to say regarding the pitchers who "haven't a thing."

How many times does one hear the expression in regard to certain pitchers: "I can't for the life of me see how he gets away with his games? Why, he hasn't a thing."

To a good many fans, and especially those who are not close students of the game, the pitcher who is not blessed with tremendous speed and a fast-breaking curve ball is always called lucky whenever he wins a game.

In reality, the twirler who can win consistently and who is not fortunate enough to have been endowed with the natural ability some of his more fortunate fellow pitchers possess, is entitled to at least as much if not more credit than is the other sidester.

In order to accomplish the same results he must have developed something which he can see that will even up his effectiveness to the same standard of the other twirler.

This is usually accomplished by three things: Control, a change of pace, and, last of all, plenty of nerve. A pitcher of this class is termed by the baseball fraternity "a mixer."

By this is meant a pitcher who is constantly mixing them up on the batter—one not relying on tremendous speed nor a good curve ball, but depending for his success on the fact that he can pitch what the batter is not looking for.

One of the greatest examples of the successful twirler of this type is Clark Griffith, who for years was a top notcher.

"Griff" was never accused of having enough speed to knock the mitt off the catcher's hand, nor did he have a wonderful curve ball. Still he managed to win a handsome percentage of his games every year, simply because he knew how to pitch and had the nerve to hand up a slow one any time he thought he could outguess the batter with it.

There are any number of major league pitchers who depend on this style of work to win their games, and they are about as hard to beat as anyone.

Instead of being called lucky, they should be given credit for the wonderful work they accomplish, and are to be complimented for the advantage they have taken of a few things Nature has endowed them with, thus putting them on an equal footing with their fellow twirlers who have more natural ability.

VASS SENDS ENTRY FOR MARATHON

Gus Vass of the Mercury A. C. of New York, who finished in tenth place last year, has entered for the B. A. A. Marathon run. His was the most prominent entry received by Manager George V. Brown to-day. There were a dozen others and the total is up to 165 now.

No entries will be accepted after tonight. The committee does not wish to exclude any good runner from participating, but the programs must be printed and the list must close. The athletes have been given three days of grace; all have had sufficient time and warning.

The rain to-day will prevent some of the runners from taking a work-out on the course to-day, although it is just like some of them to do it late this afternoon, figuring that the conditions on Monday will not be favorable and this will be a good opportunity to get accustomed to unfavorable weather.

Most of the New Yorkers who are entered will arrive to-day, late this afternoon or to-morrow. There will be quite a colony from New York and from Philadelphia, and the outside entry list is the biggest ever received for the long distance classic.

The rain to-day will make the roads in fine condition, and if there is sun to-morrow and Saturday it will dry out the course so that it will be just as if made to order specially.

The interest is even greater than it has been in other years, and the other Marathons have stimulated the favor and fervor for it.

There is a good deal of talk that the record of 2 hours 24 minutes and 24 seconds, made two years ago by Tom Longboat, fast though it was, will be broken.

LANGFORD AND BARRY DRAW

ALBANY, N. Y., April 15.—Sam Langford of Boston and Jim Barry of Chicago clashed for ten rounds at catch weights at the North End A. C. in one of the fastest ring battles seen here in a long time. At the end honors were so even that the result may be called a draw.

In the early rounds Langford was the aggressor, but was met at all stages by a stubborn resistance by the Chicago fighter, who not only showed his usual gameness, but was clever enough at times to avoid the vicious rushes of the colored man. Both tried hard to put over the knockout punch but they were unable to do so.

Baseball News and Notes

Who said the Doves was a weak hitting team?

* * *

Things were lively for fair after the Dovey tribe got under way.

* * *

Eleven Doves faced the two twirlers, Colvaleski and Moren, in that awful fifth.

* * *

Bad Bill Dahlen's stay at Brooklyn did not put any blinders on his batting eye. However Bill was at times unable to tell where to shoot the ball and in each time he guessed the wrong place.

* * *

When Smith was announced as the catcher who would work for the home team, many fans were given a surprise as they expected to see Bowerman behind the bat.

* * *

Ferguson was not knocked off the rubber. He merely retired after pitching half of the game.

* * *

It is a wonder there was not more errors than were made as the ball was a very difficult thing to grasp during the entire contest.

* * *

O, you Dahlen. Three hits and a total of seven bases.

* * *

The Doves kept hitting right up to the last minute. In the eighth, the last inning they batted, they secured three safeties.

* * *

Mattern had a balk called on him by Umpire Rigley.

* * *

In the last inning Jacklitsch was sent in to the bat for Moren but the best he could muster was a weak pop to Beck.

Kitty Bransfield was on deck with several strenuous protests to his nibs, the Umps. As usual they got him nothing.

* * *

After Dahlen had gotten his home run, he sent a ball right in the same neighborhood but it hit a pole and bounded back into the park.

* * *

Five hits, four singles and one double, in a row look pretty good to the fans. This is the total of the Doves' performance in the fifth round.

* * *

Col. Dovey was the recipient of a handsome floral gift from the Galway Social Club, of this city. The fans were unaware of the kindness of the Galway Club as the gift arrived too late to be delivered on the field. Otto Denninger, who used to play on various teams in the Back Bay district and who now looks after the center garden for the Phillies, received a floral decoration from the Acme Baseball team.

* * *

It looked good to the fans to see the boys march across the field to the strains of martial music, although they were not all in step.

* * *

In spite of the rain and heavy field the game was played in pretty fast time.

* * *

Smith caught several low pitches of Mattern's in the last couple of innings and saved the port side twirler some wild pitches.

* * *

The Doves went down in one, two, three order in only one inning.

* * *

Clark Griffith is drilling the Reds in batting against the spit ball. Griff says that pitchers will shelve the elusive thing when his eager youngsters show their skill against it.

* * *

Detroit has a bowling team made up of McIntyre, Willett, Mullen, Bush and Killian. Unless Manager Jennings raises his voice, games will be arranged in American League cities.

* * *

"It isn't always the men who are fast on their feet who make the best infielders," says Charlie Hemphill. "Take Wallace, George Davis, Bill Dahlen and Hugh Jennings for instance. Not such fast movers, but great infielders. Sometimes speed is a handicap to an infielder."

* * *

Tom Doreen, chief of the Cleveland park police, says he's going to take steps to improve the conduct of the spectators at the games played at home this season. It's his intention to have the playing fields inclosed by a wire fence, so that the over ambitious fans will be unable to hinder players and umpires with such things as pop bottles.

* * *

This is what McGraw has to say about Raymond: "He has as much as any pitcher in baseball, and now he is ready to start the season." A few years ago Mike Finn of Little Rock refused to pay $100 for the release of Raymond. To-day McGraw would not sell him for a small fortune.

* * *

Having had experience with Johnny Evers and John Kling, Manager Chance of the Cubs favors having players under contract for twelve months. A player who balked at reporting in the Spring would have his salary lopped off.

* * *

Even in Toledo hitting is the thing that earns a position. Smoot, Seybold and Hickman, three big league discards, have made their young rivals' speed look like a bogus baseball asset.

* * *

In Philadelphia the hopeful patrons of the National League club are already commenting on the rare coincidence of having a new baseball park and a pennant winner in the same season. The substitution of Hanford or Deininger for Osborne in centre field is the only change in the Quaker roster.

* * *

Frank ("Silver") Flint, who played from 1877 to 1889, inclusive, with Indianapolis and Chicago, caught 836 games out of a total of 1,325 played by his teams in thirteen years, seldom wearing a mask, glove or protector.

* * *

Shortly after the Big Four were sold to Detroit by Buffalo, Providence and Buffalo played to less than $3 receipts. This is the National League low-attendance record.

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

M'KINNON GETS A DECISION ON BURKE'S FOUL

Sailor Burke, the New York middleweight, after putting up the gamest exhibition ever seen in the Armory A. A. ring, lost the decision on a foul to Bill McKinnon, the Roxbury slugger, in the eleventh round.

The climax to the bout was one of the most peculiar that has happened in the pugilistic sport at the big club for some time, as very few saw the low blow struck because the boxers were close together at the time and could not understand the action of Referee Sheehan in suddenly stepping in between the men and ordering Burke to his corner and awarding the decision to McKinnon. Even the Roxbury boxer did not quite understand the situation as he did not feel any effects of the blow and did not make any protest. Burke took the ruling against him with good grace, considering the showing he had made up to the time of the abrupt ending, as he had the advantage, landing the cleanest and hardest punches in every round.

Broke Arm in Fifth.

Burke fought from the fifth round with a broken left arm and yet succeeded in getting the better of McKinnon with his one good trusty right.

It was a gritty display on the part of the tar. He came to his corner at the end of the fifth in agony, and for the rest of the bout simply used his left as buttress for McKinnon's punches, wincing with pain when McKinnon hammered the injured member, but he refused to quit at any stage, going to McKinnon with sledge-hammer rights, which seemed to sink into the local boy's anatomy every time they connected, and he was busy slamming them in from start to finish in every round.

Crippled as he was Burke won a lot of praise for his action in sticking to the ring in spite of his handicap. What would have happened had he the use of both of his maulers was a foregone conclusion, if he could beat McKinnon with his right alone. Never again will his gameness be questioned in this burg, as he dispelled any taint of that kind which had been attached to his name in the past.

There was not much spice in the prelims. Johnny Cavill and Tom Foley went six rounds to a draw and Jackie Williams of Cambridge got a small margin over Jimmy Murray in six rounds for the decision. Jeff Madden, a crude heavyweight, faced Porkey Flynn, instead of Tim Sullivan, who was on the hospital list and lasted till the middle of the second round when the bout was stopped, as Madden was being chopped to pieces.

BIG OFFER FOR HORSE.

Trainer L. A. Dorell, formerly with Village Farm and now superintendent of a breeding farm near Vienna, Austria, has cabled to A. H. Miller of Buffalo an offer of $8,000 for Genteel H., 2:08¼.

BIG BENEFIT PLANNED FOR CUE WIZARD

All up for Jake Schaefer Day, April 26.

The "Little Wizard of Billiards" is to be given a national benefit on that date, and the billiard room proprietors in Greater Boston promise to do their share in boosting the receipts.

This great master, who has been flat on his back at Denver, Col., for nearly one year, has done more for the game than any other living man, and to him belongs most of the credit for the modern scientific game.

Born in Milwaukee in 1855, he showed his remarkable genius at an early age, and though the advancement of the game scientifically has been made step by step, he has always been leading the way.

Schaefer's health has been gradually failing in the past few years, and, though he has appeared in several championship matches, generally more than holding his own, the inroads of the disease has sapped his strength until to-day he is little more than a shadow of his former self. Now that he is very ill, with almost no chance of permanent recovery, he needs money. His generous spirit, always dispensing charity with both hands, has put him in a position where he is no longer able to purchase the little comforts, which would go a long ways toward prolonging his life.

A. G. Cutler, of the Hub Billiard Palace, says that, to help along the benefit, he is willing to play exhibition games with any local player or players in all of the prominent rooms in the city on that night. In his own place he will cross cues with some local master of the game, before or after which he is willing to go elsewhere and play.

Lon Curtis, of the Imperial, has arranged a very interesting programme for the evening, in George Carter meeting Charles Campbell for 300 points at 18-2 balkline, and 25 points at three-cushions. Two amateurs will also contest, and then Carter and Campbell will give an exhibition of fancy shots. Seats will be twenty-five cents, the total receipts going to the fund. G. L. Burt has donated a fancy cue for Charles Warren and Allen Mason to compete for in a fifty-point, three-cushion game.

Micah J. Murray will open his new rooms, No. 665 Washington street, over the Gaiety Theatre, next Saturday night. Twelve Brunswick tables and first-class equipments will make the place popular with billiard experts. Mr. Murray intends arranging a programme for Schaefer, but is not quite ready to announce the bill.

Mose Yatter is going to dig deep into his own pocket for the project. He says that his room is not used for the purpose of holding match and exhibition games, it being more of a club than a public billiard room. In his racks are five hundred cues with his patrons' names on them. It is on this account that he will personally donate to the fund in place of offering attractions in the nature of match games, etc.

ALFRED W. KNIGHTS, ONE OF THE BOY SWIMMERS AT B. A. A.

The boy members of the B. A. A. have their swimming day this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the tank in the basement of the B. A. A. clubhouse.

There will be fun galore for the sons, wards and young brothers of the members of the Back Bay athletic club.

There are races for each class, the distance varying according to age. The oldest boys swim eight lengths and the youngest two lengths.

Then there is a team race, in which each contestant will swim two lengths; a diving competition for all kinds of diving, jack-knife, straight, through a hoop, back, porpoise and dolphin.

The afternoon will conclude with a grand game of water push ball. This game was invented by Professor James H. Shea of the B. A. A., who has taught most of the boys how to swim and how to dive.

Prominent among the swimmers will be little Alfred Knights, son of Harry W. Knights, whose exhibition at the Sportsmen's Show last Winter was one of the features of that exhibition.

GLENDALE A. C. TO HOLD CROSS-COUNTRY RUN

The Glendale A. C. of Dorchester will hold a cross country run on April 24 from the Columbia Road gymnasium to Franklin Field. The race will start at 3 p. m. All entrants must be over seventeen years old and entries close on April 20 with Roy H. Ballard, 71 Glendale street, Dorchester.

DESHLER RECEPTION AT HOWARD TO-NIGHT

Dave Deshler, who is appearing at the Howard this week, will be tendered a reception to-night by his Cambridge friends.

Boxing News in Brief Form

Marvin Hart and Sandy Ferguson is a card the Armory A. A. is negotiating for if the Kentucky heavyweight doesn't sidestep.

* * *

Stanley Ketchell is one sensible fighter. He has refused to make a match with Jim Barry everytime such an affair was broached.

* * *

"Billy" McCarney has gone to Memphis, Tenn., to manage a boxing club there. It's a good bet that McCarney books Unk Russell for one of his first shows.

* * *

There seems to be a chalk line in the fight game. At any rate, Jack Johnson shows no disposition to take on Stanley Ketchell, who is said to be a great smoke consumer.

* * *

A battle between Abe Attell and Packey McFarland, despite the weight differences of the men, is being earnestly debated. Abe is still disabled with a damaged hand, but hopes to have the fin in good condition within a month or so.

* * *

Although McFarland will easily weigh twelve to fifteen pounds over Attell, the champion thinks he can sprint around Packey and is not averse to trying.

* * *

"All Jeffries needs is a haircut and a rubdown before going in the ring with Jack Johnson and the big black would be a cinch for him." That's the way Sam Mott, Jeff's former manager, looks at the matter.

* * *

James J. Corbett has grown exceedingly wrathy over what he terms "an unfair deal, y'u know," on the part of Champion Jack Johnson. After completing two weeks' theatrical engagements in Ohio Gentleman Jim will hit the trail for Gotham and says he will make the big smoke fight or back down.

* * *

Willis Britt made a dash over from Philadelphia last night to try and get a few sparring partners for the Michigan Lion, who is boxing at one of the theatres there. Jack Robinson tried the task for a few shows and had to give it up, as the Michigan assassin was rapidly battering the life out of him.

* * *

Tommy Burns has bought a theatre in Melbourne, Australia, and will call it the Burns theatre. The ex-champion intends to make Melbourne his permanent home. This is, indeed, good news.

* * *

Jimmy Walsh wants to fight Tommy O'Toole, the star Quaker, but O'Toole won't do better than 122 pounds.

* * *

Billy West, the rugged welterweight of New York, who is scheduled to meet Christy Williams of Dayton, Ohio, for ten rounds Saturday night before the East Avenue A. C. of Long Island City, is putting on the finishing touches for the mill and is confident of winning by the knockout route. West's recent victory over Terry Martin, of Philadelphia, makes him look good, and Jack Johnson's sparring partner will have to show at his best to win.

* * *

Young Otto will probably be matched to fight either Johnny Summers or Jimmy Britt for twenty rounds at the Wonderland A. C. on April 26.

GLIDDEN TOUR STARTS JULY 12 FROM DETROIT

By J. C. KERRISON.

This year's annual tour of the A. A. A. will start in Detroit on July 12 instead of July 5, as was originally intended. This will give the participants an opportunity to celebrate Independence Day at their own home, instead of in a foreign city.

As has been generally understood, the tour this Summer will be through the Middle West, starting at Detroit and stopping at Chicago, Denver and other cities which have, heretofore, been unknown in the tour for the Glidden trophy.

This year, as in the first competition, it will be possible for an individual entrant to win the Glidden trophy. It will be a competition between clubs and there will be no teams. The winner of the Glidden prize will have personal custody of it for a year, it being a perpetual trophy. There will be a new Hower trophy for runabouts, which will become the permanent possession of the winner as in former seasons. There is also a new prize for cars with miniature bodies, or double rumbles. This is known as the Detroit trophy, it having been subscribed for and presented by the motorists of that city. A single winner is certain to be evolved. The cars will be classified and penalties will be imposed in fractions of a point for repairs and replacements.

The E. M. F. Pathfinder, with Dia Lewis aboard, left Detroit to lay out the ruote on Monday last and from now on one can expect to hear of the kind of roads that will be encountered in the big event.

Mr. P. O. Sheehan, formerly connected with the Diamond Rubber Company, has been appointed city salesman for the Republic Rubber Company of New York, No. 735 Boylston street. Mr. Sheehan says that the Republic Rubber Company makes a specialty of heavyweight tires for hard touring service, and points with pride to the records made by Staggard Treads, used by many of the local owners, and looks forward to a busy season.

At a full meeting of the Committee of Management of the American Motor Car Manufacturers' Association held at No. 505 Fifth avenue, yesterday, H. O. Smith, chairman, announced the appointment of R. E. Olds, to head the Show Committee for 1909. The other members of the committee will be S. H. Mora and Benjamin Briscoe, with Alfred Reeves as general manager. The association will hold its tenth international automobile show at Grand Central Palace, New York.

The formation of the Manufacturers' Contest Association for the purpose of taking a concrete interest in racing and contest matters, was unanimously approved and a resolution was adopted recommending that all members of the A. M. C. M. A. join and support the new organization which has an agreement with the A. A. A. regarding contest matters. It was decided further that the members should be asked to take the matter up with their dealers throughout the country that the actions of the Manufacturers Contest Association may be fully supported.

HORSE NEWS TRACK GOSSIP

Will it be Dover, Toronto or Providence that will take that vacant week before Readville in the Grand Circuit?

Henry F. Todd, St. Stephen, N. B., who, with J. M. Johnson of Boston, at one time owned the great Todd, 2:14¾, is dead.

Trainer Frank Fox has shifted his mind about quitting Combination Park for the Dover track.

Bob Proctor has got Jack Crabtree's trotting gelding, Nutboy, 2:07¼, at Readville in preparation for his races.

Horsemen are greatly pleased with the early-closing races offered by the Brockton Fair people. There is certain to be a good, big entry list.

Dennis Neyland is rapidly filling his stalls at Readville, the latest count bring the number up to six he is working.

Isaac Sexton is looking forward to his rare trotting stallion Tom Phair, 2:14¼, making good in the fast classes at Charles River speedway this season.

Superintendent Tithman has completed the horse show ring at Charles River speedway. May 18, the date of the initial horse show, under the auspices of the Metropolitan Driving Club, there will be no matinee racing, the entire afternoon being given up to the exhibition.

James Hanley of Providence has received news that his mare Eleata, 2:08½, winner of the M. and M., and Charter Oak stakes in 1901, has foaled at the Patchen Wilkes Farm, Lexington, Ky., a fine filly by Moko. She will be bred to Peter the Great, 2:07¼.

Dan King takes four to Readville this week, among the number being Jerry Sullivan's pacers, Frank S., 2:08¾, Ed Wilkes, 2:13¾, and the pacer Simon, 2:13½.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS: FINANCIAL NEWS

WALL ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

WALL STREET, New York, April 15.—Those patriots who sold American stocks because of another street fight in Constantinople were surprised when they discovered that they were unable to break the market. Their selling has apparently been permitted as a test and the result is satisfactory. Active manipulation has been resumed by the leaders, with another upward swing in progress.

$ $ $

Great strength is apparent in the entire list. Edwin Hawley has returned unexpectedly from his vacation in Virginia and Iowa Central is made the feature of his group of stocks. This stock seems to have something to do with the future of Chesapeake & Ohio, although the street is not familiar enough with the railroad map to figure out the deal in detail. There is accumulation of all the stocks in which Hawley and his friends have become interested. Chesapeake & Ohio is being absorbed. There are weird rumors in connection with Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, but nothing definite can be ascertained officially.

$ $ $

Hawley's interest in the Interborough-Metropolitan is also causing good buying of the traction shares. Friends of T. P. Shonts are being advised to purchase the stock regardless of the day to day quotations and to hold it for a long period. Brooklyn Rapid Transit has been a laggard recently, but a director of the company said yesterday that it would not only pay its dividend at the 4 per cent. rate throughout the year, but would show a still further increase of surplus. The improvements completed ~~in the last~~ two years are proving much more valuable than even the directors expected them to be.

$ $ $

The movement that warmed up trading in New York seemed to have had its beginning in London, where there was advance information regarding the coalers. The belief is now entertained that segregation will cause an advance of perhaps a dollar a ton in anthracite coal and increase the profits of the coal departments of the railroads. The Coal Trust has in the past been something of a benevolent institution. Should segregation be forced it will lose that character.

$ $ $

Reports from the West are busy settling the alleged feud between Hill and Harriman. Wall Street forgot many months ago that such a feud ever existed. The only thing it is interested in just now is how close the alliance is between those interests. It seems to be very close when Harriman will permit Mr. Hill to buy a railroad in his own district. The present outlook is that Mr. Hill will soon own another railroad in Harriman territory and will take it with full consent of Mr. Harriman and the Standard Oil interests. There is really only one railroad system in America and the leading interests in it are Morgan, Harriman, Hill and the Rockefellers.

$ $ $

Among specialties to show strength are Linseed Oil and Corn Products. Directors of the latter company authorized $10,000,000 of bonds to be used in payments for new properties. The real estate owned by the company in Chicago is about to be sold for $3,000,000, and that money will be devoted to paying the accumulated dividend on the preferred. In Linseed the rise is based on the use of oil in connection with the world-wide campaign of painting that has been going on the last year and a half.

$ $ $

The "run" in Distillers Securities shares is attributed to a pool with which officials of the company disclaim connection. Accompanying these operations is some investment and more long distance speculative buyers. The company undoubtedly is in a stronger position than at any time in its history. The management insists that prohibition in the South does not prohibit the sale of liquir in bulk, and, therefore, has not affected the organization's business: quite the contrary. But the same authority contends that while money is coming in faster and in larger amounts than ever, there will be no increase in dividends this year and possibly not for two years. Current liabilities have been reduced from approximately $6,000,000 to $3,750,000.

$ $ $

In Western Union Telegraph the rise seems legitimate. It is intrinsically important that this business is improving, for an improvement here means betterment everywhere, the telegraph is one of the best, if not the best barmoeters of trade in general.

LOCAL STOCK TONE HOPEFUL

STATE STREET.—Sentiment was hopeful in stock market circles this forenoon, even though the trading was not aggressive. United States Smelting common was bulled, putting the price up from 40¾ to 42¼. This stock has been under pressure of late owing to internal dissentions. Amalgamated yielded from 77 to 76⅜ on moderate transactions.

North Butte was a little more even, stiffening ½ to 67. Mass. Consolidated was buoyant again, touching 9¼, with some reaction. American Telephone ran off ½ to 136½ on lessened business, and U. S. Steel fell almost a point ot 50⅞.

STOCKS GO UP, NEW RECORDS

By THOMAS C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Another wave of aggressive buying of those railroad stocks that own coal mines carried the list in Wall street to-day to new high levels. Reading was the leader, selling above 142, while strength was shown in Ontario & Western, Erie and Delaware & Hudson. Although the steel shares did not advance materially in the early trading, the buying of them was of the very best character.

A high official of the trust made the statement that the corner had been turned in the steel trade with absolute certainty. Business is now coming in an fair volume.

In London American shares displayed firmness with strength in Baltimore & Ohio. On the New York curb market Nevada Consolidated and Goldfield Consolidated were the strong features.

After the Chicago grain market opened, showing still further advances in options, profit taking developed in the stock market that caused reaction running in some cases as high as a point. The cotton market also opened with a rush, showing gains of 8 to 15 points.

The Law and the Woman; a Study in Equality

Every Woman Who Is NOT a Suffragist Ought Especially to Read This Article

By Dorothy Dix

THE Eastern States at first adopted the English common law, most barbarous in its treatment of women, or, rather, of wives, for there has never been really cruel treatment of unmarried women.

Louisiana came into the Union with the vicious Napoleonic laws.

The Western States that were ceded by Mexico continued the unjust Spanish laws.

These three forms have been greatly modified in many of the States, and those in the Middle West, largely settled by progressive men, framed their statutes in the beginning along modern lines. There is not one State, however, in which the laws are exactly just to wives as to husbands.

For instance, the law in a number of States provides that the widow or widower shall have the same inheritance in the separate property of the other, and the first thought would be, "This is absolutely just." A little investigation will show, however, that separate property is only what he or she possessed at marriage, and the vast majority of women never have any separate property at all, and in almost every State all that is acquired during marriage, by the join efforts of the two, belongs wholly to the husband.

In many States the law now provides that if the wife engages in business as a sole trader, or goes outside her home to work, her earnings belong to her, although in some States still the wife's wages belong to her husband, she being regarded as a chattel, and in every State the proceeds of the wife's labor within the household are the sole and separate property of the husband.

The law makes the services of the wife belong to the husband, and in return she is legally entitled only to food, shelter and clothes, and these of such quantity and quality as he dictates.

All Advantages for Man

Great stress is laid on the fact that in almost every State a married woman may make a will. So she may, but in most of them she can dispose only of her separate property, and not of one dollar that she and her husband have accumulated during marriage. Out of this she cannot make any provision for her children, her parents, or for any benefaction. The whole of it belongs absolutely to the husband, and at his death he can dispose of it as he likes.

In order that the wife might not be left absolutely penniless after a lifetime of toil, the common law provided what is called the widow's dower—that is, the use during her lifetime of one-third of the real estate.

Less than one-half the States have replaced the widow's dower with special statutes making more liberal provision for her, but New York is not one of them. If the property here does not exceed $2,000, the widow may have all of it; if over that amount, she is entitled to only the life use of one-third of the real estate, and to one-third of the personal estate absolutely. If there are no children, she may have half of the personal property. All the balance that they have accumulated together goes to his relatives, and cases are of almost daily occurrence where widows are left almost destitute in their old age, although the whole of the property would have kept them in comfort.

In a number of States husbands may dispose of all the property, including the home, without the wife's signature. In about one-fourth of them wives are not allowed by law to control the property they had before marriage or inherited afterward.

In Tennessee if a wife is compelled to get a divorce the court may allow her a suitable support out of the rents and profits of her own separate property, and the husband keeps the rest.

In about two-thirds of the States only wives now possess their earnings outside of the home. Although wives have no share in the joint earnings, they are in many of the States held equally liable with the husband for the support of the family, and their separate property or earnings can be taken even to pay for the clothes of an able-bodied husband, as was done in Illinois not long ago.

Some States require the husband to support the family, others do not, but all declare by law that he is the head of the family and has the sole right to determine where they shall reside.

In California, when the woman's suffrage bill was before the Legislature this last Winter, the Sacramento Bee came out with a half page article saying the laws of that State were so favorable to women they did not need a vote. Yet in California the wife's earnings belong absolutely to the husband, but she is equally liable with him for the support of the family, and he can decide what are the necessities and take her personal belongings to pay for them. He can dispose of all the property without her consent. She has no more guardianship of her own children than of anybody else's.

In Louisiana the suffrage club recently wrote to the Governor to know how he stood in their question. He answered that he saw no necessity for women voting, as "women's word is already law."

The club replied, asking, is it because women's word is law that the husband in that State can sell all of the joint property without the wife's consent; that she cannot control even her separate property; that the wages she earns and the clothes she wears belong to him; that she cannot make a will without his authority; that without his authority she cannot appear in court for any purpose; that she cannot act as guardian even for her own children; that no woman can legally witness any document.

Can't Use Her Own Property

In Texas the property that a woman owns at marriage remains her own, but passes under the absolute control of her husband.

The wife cannot sell her separate property without her husband's consent, but he can sell his without hers. He may also sell their joint community property without her consent.

The wages of the wife belong to the husband, whether she is living with him or separated from him.

Divorce is granted to the husband if the wife is caught in a single act of adultery, but the woman can only obtain a divorce if the husband has abandoned her and lived in adultery with another woman.

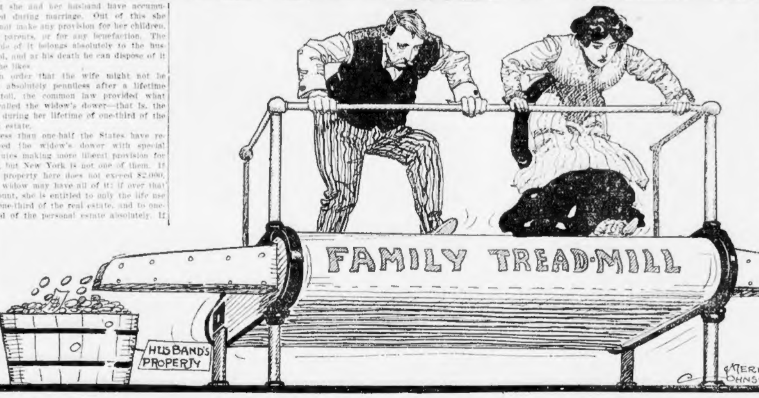
The father is the guardian of the persons and estates of the children.

The law of support provides that "if the husband fails to support the wife and children from the proceeds of the land she may have, or fail to educate the children as the fortune of the wife would justify, she may, in either case, complain to the county court, which, upon satisfactory proof, shall decree that so much of her proceeds shall be paid to the wife for the support of herself and the education of the children as the court may deem necessary."

Such are only a few of the many unjust laws against women. The District of Columbia and ten States only give the mother equal guardianship with the father in the children. In all of the other States the father has entire charge of the persons, earnings and estates of minor children.

In Tennessee, Alabama, Maryland, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, Ohio, Vermont and Virginia the father can dispose of his children by will at his death. He can will his unborn child, in many of the States, away from the mother who is going down into the Valley of Death to bear it.

What do the mothers who oppose woman's suffrage think of that?



"In almost every State the law provides that all property acquired during marriage, by the joint efforts of husband and wife, belongs wholly to the husband."

The Manicure Lady Gets in the Kermit Class

"ANYTHING stirring to-day, George?" asked the Manicure Lady.

"In the papers, you mean?" said the Head Barber.

"Yes; I mean news," said the Manicure Lady. "I didn't have the price of a morning paper when I left the house."

"I don't see much except that stuff about young Kermit Roosevelt slugging a big German in a poker game. That's pretty coarse work, I reckon, but I suppose we've got to stand for it.

"Let me whisper something to you, kid. Kermit Roosevelt, so the dispatches say, played a splendid game of draw on the ship, and made the big German lay down three or four flossy hands. I suppose his father was looking on and smiling his approval, though their press agent forgot to put that part in.

"Well, finally the German says: 'You think you are better than the Crown Prince already yet.' Then Kermit fixes the German with his clear blue eyes and says 'Vas hab du gesagen? Gesagen it noch einmal!'

"The German gesagens it again, and then, with the speed of a panther, young Kermit leaps across the table and cops the insulting foreigner on the place where the pretzels enter.

"I can just see that fight, kiddo. I can see the lithe young athlete dancing around the ale fed Dutch person, shooting out with left and right until the foreigner's face is a mass of cuts and bruises. Oh, yes, indeed—I can see the whole thing, in my mind."

"Maybe it's straight enough," said the Manicure Lady. "You know Kermit's father was a great boxer before him. Mister Mike Donovan said so."

"Hearts Is Kermit's Game"

"Of course Mister Donovan said so. He was in a fair way to cop a little of the nation's change, and why shouldn't he say so? But a cousin of mine, who went to Harvard when the ex-President was attending the same school, tells me that the only man Roosevelt ever licked was a freshman who had just been hazed."

"Maybe Kermit played a good game of poker, anyway," suggested the Manicure Lady.

"That's another good laugh," snorted the Head Barber. "I can just see the dear little child now, sitting in with a few of those patient veterans, drawing two cards to three clubs in the mad hope that he will grab a flush. And I can see him staying on a pair of threes, standing two or three raises before the draw."

"Why shouldn't he stay on a pair of threes?" asked the Manicure Lady. "There four of 'em in the deck, ain't there?"

"That remark puts you right in the Kermit class," declared the Head Barber. "Honest, kiddo, I would dearly love to sit in with young Kermit if I was sure the old man was staking him."

"Of course the old man would stake him!" said the Manicure Lady. "Who else?"

"I don't know," said the Head Barber, "unless it might be the Smithsonian Institute."

"I don't think it's anybody's business if a young gent wants to play poker," asserted the Manicure Lady. "What would you have him do?"

"Oh, nothing," said the Head Barber. "But between you and me, little girlie, I think he better keep on playing hearts with Miss Draper of Massachusetts."

A Story That Everybody Should Read--By Dorothy Dix

Girls and Young Men
Wives and Husbands

THE stage, and particularly the French stage, has devised a form of comedy that is called a farce—God save the word—in which the humor consists of a husband deceiving his middle-aged wife.

The husband is always depicted as a gay old dog, with an eye for a pretty woman, and it is represented as excruciatingly funny for him to be unfaithful to the wife who has lost her good looks and youth and vivacity, and who sits at home waiting for him to tell her preposterous lies in explanation of his absence from his own fireside.

"The Journal of a Neglected Wife" is the reverse side of this medal. It is a story in which the author has dissected the living, quivering soul of a woman whose husband has grown weary of her and learned to love another.

It is the grim tragedy of the forsaken wife, who has no weapon with which to even fight for that which is dearer than life itself to her.

She is middle-aged. Her hair is growing gray. Her cheeks have lost their roses; her eyes their lustre. Her face is worn and lined. Her hands, that were once her pride and that her husband loved to kiss, have grown yellow with overful veins.

Enter, the "Affinity"

Long familiarity has dulled her husband's interest in her and they have settled down to the monotonous jog trot of double harness.

It is enough for the woman, whose life is bounded by her love for her husband and her home, but it is not enough for the brilliant man, who is still young at an age when his wife is old.

He falls in love with a beautiful young woman who, in the cant phrase of the day, is his affinity, and stirs his pulses, and fills his life as his commonplace wift has never done.

The wife, who has no talent save the talent of loving, discovers in some way the existence of the "other woman," and she disguises herself and shadows him to find out who this woman is and where she lives.

She watches for him at his office door, and follows him into a telephone booth. He calls up first his own house and she hears him say:

"Hello. This is Mr. Kennedy, Ellen. Ask Mrs. Kennedy to come to the phone. She is out? Well, when she comes in tell her that I have been detained at the office and may not be home until late—for her not to wait dinner. That's all. Good-by."

Tries the Pitiful, Futile Tricks

Then he telephones the other woman. "Hello, Central. Give me 7205 River." Again a pause. "Hello. Oh, why, I am through earlier than I thought," with a strange gentleness in his voice. "I am on my way up now. Yes, in half an hour or less. Yes," with a tender laugh. "Good-by."

And the wife—for whom there was the excuse about business, for whom the husband's voice was cold and perfunctory, not tender and gentle as for the other—stumbles out into the night, dazed and crushed by her misfortune.

She tries all the pitiful tricks that so many thousands of other women fruitlessly try by which to kindle again the fire of love in a husband's heart.

She attempts to make herself look as she did when he fell in love with her. She buys dainty clothes and lace-trimmed, pink silk negligees—and he never notices them. And with a sickening of despair, she realizes the futility of the wife competing with the "Other Woman."

Pictures a Wife's Torture

It is a book that should be widely read, because it teaches a number of lessons that are peculiarly needed just now. Wives will read it through their tears, because only too many other women have trod the same hard path as the heroine.

Thousands and thousands of other women know what it is to keep lonely watches at home while their fancy tortures them by conjuring up the tender looks, the caressing smiles that once were theirs, and that their husbands are now showering upon some other woman.

"The Journal of a Neglected Wife" is a book that all young women should read, because it will teach them that the girl who allows herself to become interested in a married man, or encourages his attentions, not only plays with fire, which is mighty apt to scorch her own fingers, but commits the deadliest crime of which she is capable against some sister woman.

There are many foolish young girls who like to brag of their fascination for married men, and who think it amusing to see a fat, grizzled, middle-aged woman frantic with jealousy. Surely no girl is hard hearted enough to take delight in such sport if she realized, as she must after reading this book, the torture she was subjecting another woman to.

Above all, men should read "The Journal of a Neglected Wife." Its message is peculiarly to them. Perhaps the man who is gay, the man who flirts with every pretty face that crosses his pathway, as well as the man who has more serious entanglements, would stop to remember more the wife at home that he has neglected, if he realized the agony that he was making her suffer.

The BOSTON AMERICAN has secured the serial rights to "The Journal of a Neglected Wife," and its publication will begin Saturday in this paper. Watch out for it, for it will be a treat that no reader can afford to miss. DOROTHY DIX.

The Burden of Lucullus or the Burden of Job?

By HENRY W. FISCHER

BERTHA KRUPP, the richest woman on the continent of Europe, sinks into melancholia, her youthful mind wrecked by the care of her great fortune.

The daughter of the richest man in America—in the world, perhaps—committed suicide because of fear that her millions and her father's did not guarantee her a well-endowed old age.

Mrs. Hetty Green has to live in a shabby flat because the curiosity and impertinence of wealth-worshippers keep her out of the luxurious hotels that would seem to be her legitimate abode.

Parallel columns of the daily press, from which the items quoted are culled, demonstrate conclusively that riches and poverty are akin.

Substitute Jennie Smith's name for that of the cannon king's daughter—the tragedy remains. Jennie goes to Ward's Island, because her mind gave way trying to manage a household with seven youngsters on $10 a week.

And for every princess royal of wealth taking poison because of the fear of financial ruin, a hundred offspring of want seek solace in carbolic acid or the river every day in the year.

It would seem, then, that the burden of Lucullus is as hard to bear as that of Job, and how could it be otherwise?

Was not Poverty beloved by Jupiter, god of plenty?

Plato, the allegorist, tells of their happy union, even if popular mythologies do not.

They had a son, too, who grew up to become the god of love, "resembling his father in jollity, his mother in nakedness."

Love, the offspring of Poverty and Plenty, sounds romantic, but do not let us forget that Lycurgus, author of the most complete charity organization ever conceived by government, would have in his republic neither poor nor rich.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SOME TRIFLE IN SILVER.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have had occasion to call up a certain office in this city every day during the past year or more, and have always received the most courteous treatment from the operator. Now, I wish to give her some little token of my appreciation without in any way offending her. Could you suggest something? MARIE H.

YOU might give her some pretty silver trifle, such as a candlestick, picture frame, small box, or something of the kind. Or you could send her a bunch of violets for Easter Sunday. All girls like flowers for Easter.

CANNOT LIVE WITHOUT FAITH

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am in love with a young man four years my senior. I am inclined to believe that he loves me, as he comes around almost every night to see me, and always treats me very nice and tells me that he loves me very much and is thinking about marrying me, but he says he has not got enough money. Now, dear Miss Fairfax, the only reason that I doubt him is because he tells me a good many falsehoods, and I find them out through some of his boy friends. When I speak to him about it he says that the reason that he tells me these falsehoods is because if he told me the truth I would get angry because I do not want him to go out without me.

Now, Miss Fairfax, please tell me if you think he loves me if he tells me so many falsehoods.

HEARTBROKEN.

I AM afraid you could never be happy if you married a man you could not trust. You would never know what to believe and what to doubt. Tell him that you would always rather he told you the truth. If he still continues telling falsehoods, I think it would be wise to give him up.

BETTER NOT TRY

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am nineteen years of age, handsome, possessing a general education, and am employed as stenographer and typewriter in a large concern. Heretofore I had no inclination for love till I came in contact with a young man whom I dearly love. When I meet him he greets me in a very friendly and business-like manner. I greeting him likewise, being too shy to show my love. But the fact that he stands higher in education and professionally makes me feel that my love will not be reciprocated.

I believe that he has taken my heart, for he is ever in my thoughts, and I feel that I could not live happily without his company; therefore, I appeal to you, dear Miss Fairfax, that you kindly give me advice how I am to act to gain his love. BROKEN-HEARTED.

AS the young man seems to regard you merely in a friendly way, I do not think you had better make any effort to win his love. If you are always polite and friendly toward him and do not act in a silly, affected manner, the chances are that he will like you. As to his falling in love with you, that, of course, I cannot tell.

MUST NOT MONOPOLIZE HER

DEAR MISS MAIRFAX:

I am nineteen years of age and am keeping company with a girl two years my junior, and whom I love very dearly. Now do you think I should keep going with her—of course keeping her out of other company—when my intentions are not to think of matrimony until I reach the age of thirty, at the earliest?

A CONSTANT READER.

YOU are both too young to think of marriage for some time to come; but as you have no intention of marrying for eleven years, it might be wiser not to try to win her affections.

To-day's Best Story

A LARGE touring motor car containing a man and his wife met a load of hay in a very narrow road. The woman declared that the farmer must back out, but her husband contended that she was unreasonable.

"But you can't back the car so far," she said, "and I don't intend to move for anybody. Besides, he should have seen us."

The husband pointed out that this was impossible, owing to an abrupt turn in the road.

"I don't care," she insisted. "I won't move if I have to stay here all night."

Her husband was starting to argue the matter, when the farmer, who had been sitting quietly on the hay, interrupted: "Never mind, sir," he exclaimed with a sigh. "I'll try to back out. I've got one just like her at home."

To-Morrow's Best Boston Bargains.

At the Glen Shirt and Collar Company, on Tremont street, a grand closing out sale of a lot of sample corsets has been arranged for Friday and Saturday of this week. An assortment of their popular Jewel models—in short, medium and long hip styles, that are regular $1.50 and $2 values, will all be marked to the one price for quick clearance—49 cents a pair. They are all fine coutil models, with hose supporters attached, nicely trimmed with wide white satin ribbon, embroidery and laces. The short model may be had in sizes 21 to 25, and the medium and long models from 25 to 30. Do not miss this sale if you need a new pair of corsets, as these are certainly great values.

Visit the Boston Department Store Friday for unusual values in ladies' extra sized drawers. Eight dozen pairs of well made cotton drawers will be offered at the exceptionally low price of 33 cents a pair as a special for one day. They are made of good quality cotton on fitted band and are finished at bottom with fine cluster tucking and four-inch hamburg embroidered ruffle of very pretty pattern.

Friday shoppers will find at Barton & Eaton's Silk Store, Room 44, No. 7 Temple place, a splendid assortment of fine dress silks on sale at 59 cents a yard, that would ordinarily retail for 85 cents and $1 a yard. The lot will contain 24-inch satin foulard silks, in black and the leading Spring shades, showing some of the newest effects in stripes, polka dots and figures, and also a fine variety of 27-inch pongee silks, in plain colors and fancy effects, in colored polka dot and two-tone stripes, all new Spring goods.

At Vorenberg's Novelty Store to-morrow a very fine assortment of ladies' solid gold cuff links will be marked to 85 cents a pair, that are usually sold at $1.25 a pair. As the tailored waist has become very popular this season, there has been a great demand for links and these are particularly good values and may be had in the Roman gold, with neat beaded border and the popular rose gold in fancy designs. This price is special for Friday only.

In Houghton & Dutton's Chinaware Department on Friday you may have your choice of four different sized teapots at 19 cents that will be found splendid bargains. These are all English Rockingham teapots, highly glazed, and come in half pint, pint, quart and three-pint sizes. A rapid sale is expected on these pots, as this special price is unusually low.

For Friday shoppers at Brine's store just twenty-five full sized white crochet bed spreads that are worth $1.25 will be marked as a special for one day to 89 cents each. These are fine, firm spreads and may be had in several pretty patterns. After Friday they will be placed back in stock and marked to their original price.

Friday Arrow Sale

Every Friday we hold an Arrow Sale, when we mark down for quick selling all odd lots, broken sizes, single pieces, samples, goods soiled or crushed in handling or used in window displays, and goods that for any reason have been slow in selling.

By this method we are able to keep our stocks fresh, clean and correct in every way.

NOTE:—It is not what you pay, but what you receive that counts. Owing to the prevalence of exaggerated comparisons in Boston, comparative values in this advertisement have been purposely omitted.

MEREDITH LAUDS SWINBURNE

LONDON, April 14.—George Meredith sends to the London Times a characteristic tribute to Swinburne.

"Those who follow this great poet to his grave may take it to heart that the name of Swinburne is one to shine starlike in English literature, a peer among our noblest."

Mr. Meredith tells the following story as illustrating how poets whom "the equable Horace described as 'genus irritabile' are the most generous of men in dealing with their fellows whom they see to be true poets."

"It happened," he says, "that Swinburne was expected one day on a visit to me, and he, being rather late, I went along the road to meet him. At last he appeared waving the white sheets of what seemed to be a pamphlet. He greeted me with a triumphant shout and a stanza new to my ears. It was FitzGerald's 'Omar Khayyam,' and we lay on a heathery knoll beside my cottage reading a stanza alternately, indifferent to the dining bell, until a prolonged summons reminded us of our appetite.

"After the meal we took to the paper-covered treasure again. Suddenly Swinburne ran upstairs and I had my anticipations. He returned with a feather pen, a blue folio sheet and a dwarf bottle of red ink. In an hour he had finished thirteen stanzas of his 'Laus Veneris,' and rarely can one poet have paid so high a compliment to another as FitzGerald received then."

CUT THIS OUT

Fine Recipe for the Quick Cure of Coughs and Colds.

Mix half an ounce of Concentrated pine compound, which can be procured from your druggist, with two ounces of glycerine and half a pint of good whiskey; shake well each time, and use in doses of a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful every four hours. Concentrated pine compound is a product of the laboratories of the Globe Pharmaceutical Co., Chicago, but it, as well as the other ingredients, can be had from any good druggist. The Concentrated pine is a special pine product refined for medical use, and comes only in half ounce bottles, each enclosed in a screw top case.

A THRILLING NOVEL OF BOSTON LIFE

By ELLERY H. CLARK

(Copyright, 1909, by Bobbs-Merrill Company. The story, published in book form, is for sale by all booksellers.)

CHAPTER XVI.

The Hand of Man

SLOWLY the Governor turned away from the window, and seated himself at his desk. For perhaps half an hour he sat motionless, his brow furrowed, his eyes questioning, his whole attitude that of a man who seeks to solve a problem which again and again comes around to the same starting point, and at the last still eludes him. Finally, with a sudden gesture of decision, he raised his head; the faraway expression left his eyes, and he was once again his old, alert, everyday self.

Closing his desk, he pressed the button for his secretary. Then, suddenly, as if overcome by utter weariness, he sank back in his chair, with eyes half closed, and thus Field, as he entered, found him.

"Nothing wrong, sir?" he asked anxiously. He, perhaps better than any one else in the city, save Dayle, knew the pace Gordon had been setting for himself of late.

The Governor, with a sigh of infinite weariness, raised his head. "No," he said slowly, "nothing really wrong. Nothing but what a night's sleep will put right. But I am worn out, Bert, utterly worn out. We'll have to cancel everything for to-night, I'm afraid, and I'll just go home and get to bed."

Then, as Field helped him on with his coat, he added, "There's one thing you might do, Bert, to head off any possible interruption. Just get my house on the 'phone, and tell Hargreaves that I'm at home, but that I'm not to be disturbed by anyone. Tell him to answer the 'phone himself, and simply say that I'm indisposed, and can't see anyone before nine o'clock to-morrow morning. Thank you. Oh, yes, indeed, I'll take care of myself. Good night."

Two hours later, although Governor Gordon was known to be at home, so completely worn out as to be confined to his room, a man whose face and figure, had not both been hidden by raincoat, slouch hat and umbrella, would have disclosed at least a startling resemblance to the Governor's, strode along across the city through the downpour of rain, out toward the northeast streets; past Fulton, past Bradfield's, straight out across the deserted fields, now ankle-deep in mud, stumbling along the miserably kept by-paths, now fording miniature lakes and rivers, ever increasing in size as the torrents of rain steadily increased.

In spite of the discomfort, the weather conditions seemed to be to the mans liking, for as he bent forward in his efforts to breast the force of the gale, from time to time he somewhat grimly smiled. Then, as he neared the solitary house, visible only by the faint light gleaming uncertainly through the dripping panes, the smile faded suddenly from his face, his mouth set in a tense line, and into his eyes there came an expression keen, alert, watchful. As he entered the gate he cast one quick glance about him through the darkness, and half way to the door he thrust his right hand momentarily into his pocket, and as quickly withdrew it again; then, passing under the shadow of the porch, he lowered his umbrella, shook the water from his dripping garments, hesitated for just the veriest instant and knocked.

He had but a moment to wait. Silence for a space, and then the scrape of a chair, footsteps along the hall, and the door was cautiously opened to reveal Mrs. Holton, lamp in hand, peering anxiously out into the darkness.

"Who is it?" she quavered, and he could see that the hand which held the lamp was shaking. "Is it you, Governor?"

Without ceremony Gordon pushed past her into the hall. "Of course it is," he said curtly. "Who did you think it was?" Or do you have a run of callers on a night like this? If Tom's got me down here in this storm, and his news isn't what he makes it out to be, I'll break his neck; that's what I'll do to him."

Mrs. Holton, leading the way to the kitchen, managed to force a laugh. Then, as Gordon removed his dripping coat and seated himself by the fire, she remembered instructions, and grew suddenly grave.

"Didn't care for the climate of Europe?" he said abruptly.

The woman turned a shade paler, and her hands trembled more violently still. "I suppose I oughtn't to have come back," she said, in a low voice, "but I couldn't stay. Everything was different from what I'd expected; everything had changed so; and I got homesick; I had to come back, that was all there was to it."

"That," answered Gordon evenly, "I imagine should have been left for me to decide. However, we needn't discuss it now. You're here, evidently, and taking care of my friend Lynch. I suppose, incidentally, of course your coming back had nothing to do with him."

The woman's eyes did not met his. "Of course not," she lied glibly. "Why should you think such a thing?"

Gordon rose abruptly. "Well," he said, "I guess I'll go up and see him. Which room is he in?"

"Head of the stairs," she answered, "first door on the right. The only room with a light. You can't miss it. I'll be back in half an hour."

She had reached the door as she spoke, seemingly not anxious to delay her departure.

"One minute!" called Gordon sharply. "You understand, of course, that my being here to-night is absolutely to be kept secret. I shouldn't want you to make any mistake about that."

His tone was scarcely threatening, yet the woman seemed to understand. "Of course," she answered hastily. "Tom told me that. I understand everything."

Gordon smiled grimly. "That's good," he said dryly. "In half an hour, then."

He held the door open for her; then stepped to the window, and watched her until her figure was swallowed up in the blackness of the night. Then, turning leisurely, he made his way up the creaking stairs and into the sick-room.

In the dim lamplight Lynch's face, as he sat propped up among the pillows, looked ghastly enough, and yet, as Gordon came forward and pulled a chair up to the bed, it at once struck him that Lynch's eyes looked naturally bright, and when he spoke, his voice, though pitched low, was hardly the voice of a man who is seriously ill.

"Glad to see you, Governor," he said, "and sorry to trouble you so."

Gordon looked at him with closest scrutiny. "It was some trouble," he answered, "and I dare say I've done a foolish thing in coming here at all. And now, let's not waste any time. What's your important news?"

There was a silence. Outside the grim northeaster drove the rain, sheet upon sheet, against the rattling casement and the flooding pane. Within, the flickering lamplight threw strange, darting shadows across the sick man's bed. Finally Lynch raised his eyes squarely to Gordon's.

The Governor leaned back a trifle farther in his chair. "Well," he said, "and what's the story?"

Lynch did not hesitate. "It's like this," he said. "Of course, you'd like to see me out of the way, and the old woman, too. That's so, isn't it?"

Gordon smiled faintly. "For the sake of your argument, whatever it is," he said dryly. "I'm perfectly willing to assume that it's so."

Lynch nodded appreciatively. "Now," he said quickly, "I'm tired of the whole game; sorry I ever started it. I'm afraid of you, Governor, and that's the truth. Let's cry quits. Give me what I want, and I'll get out for good. And what's more, I'll get the old woman away for good, too. I'm on the level. I'll do anything you say; sign any papers you want me to sign. Let's fix it up, and stop the game right here."

The Governor's expression was one of faint interest. "How much?" he asked casually.

Lynch's answer came with equal promptness. "Fifty thousand," he said.

Gordon raised his eyebrows a trifle. "Quite a sum," he said mildly.

Lynch shook his head. "Not for what it gets you," he answered. "You'll find the value's there, as they say. It's a good bargain for both of us."

His voice was quiet enough, his tone conversational, and his gaze seemed not to be upon Gordon as he spoke, yet from the corner of his eye he was watching his visitor with a singular intentness. Gordon, as if wearied, yawned leisurely, raising his hands above his head and then replacing them upon his hips. Then, with a purely natural motion, he slipped them into the pockets of his coat.

"Well, Tom," he began slowly, his eyes fixed on the other's face, "I think, on the whole——"

Lynch gave a sudden cry, sharp, warning, insistent. Above the howling of the storm two quick reports sounded almost as one, but the little spurt of flame from the wall behind Gordon's back flashed just on the instant that the Governor's finger curled about the trigger of his revolver. Aimlessly Gordon's bullet ripped through the flooring, but the skulking figure in the room adjoining had made sure of his aim, and with a choking cry the Governor of the State pitched forward and lay motionless across the bed, with a bullet through his lungs.

In an instant Lynch, in a frenzy of haste, had leaped from the bed and started to dress. Then, suddenly, still but half-clothed, he ran to the door, just in time to meet face to face the slight, stooping figure stealing down the hallway. Lynch raised his hand. "Get that carriage!" he called sharply, "and get it quick! No skulking, now! Quick, damn you! Do you hear? Quick, I say!" And in a very ecstasy of impatience he stood, with face contorted and both arms uplifted and shaking, as if he could thus drive more speedily the crouching figure that nodded and slunk away down the stairs.

It was long after midnight when, through the driving sheets of rain, a carriage stole softly up the deserted street and stopped in front of the governor's dwelling. The driver, slipping from the box, opened the carriage door, and helped to hold upright the silent figure that his companion half lifted, half pushed, from within. In silence they carried their burden up the steps, in silence and in haste propped it against the outer door, and again in silence descended and drove away, until the outline of the carriage, quickly blending with the darkness, was at last lost to sight as it turned into the street leading away to the northeast.

Up-stairs, in the pleasant warmth, the faithful Hargreaves, for the twentieth time that night, stepped to the telephone. "Yes, sir," he answered, "all right, sir. Nine o'clock to-morrow morning. Oh, no, indeed. Nothing serious, sir. Just tired. There's no light in his room, now. I think he's sleeping sound."

Outside, braving the wind and the rain and the storm, the huddled figure, with its head sunk on its chest, leaned wearily, as if mutely pleading for shelter, against the fast closed door. The small hours of the morning came, and went. Still the figure was motionless. Spitefully the lashing rain beat down as if to rouse it; fiercely the gale, howling and moaning through the deserted streets, stopped to beat and buffet it; yet strangely, the figure, gazing with fixed, unseeing eyes, made no effort to resist, no effort to move. Governor Gordon slept soundly indeed.

The End.

Tafts at Show In New York

NEW YORK, April 15.—For the first time since he has become the chief executive of the nation President Taft attended the theatre in New York, accompanied by Mrs. Taft and his brother, Henry Taft, wife and daughter, Captain Archei Butt, military aide.

The President occupied a box at Daly's Theatre to see Mr. Sothern in a revival of his popular romantic play, "If I Were King." The President gave Mr. Sothern a warm welcome and heartily enjoyed the play. At the conclusion the President, Mrs. Taft and his party were invited back on the stage to meet Mr. Sothern.

When the "Star Spangled Banner" was played the audience arose and applauded the President, who bowed and stood until the orchestra finished playing.

ELSA PUTNAM NOW A BRIDE

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

By far the most brilliant of the Easter weddings up to this time was that in the Arlington Street Church to-day of dashing Elsa Putnam, the accomplished danseuse of the Vincent Club and popular society girl, to Samuel Powel, son of Mrs. John Samuel Powel of Newport.

Miss Putnam is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pickering Putnam of the Charlesgate and is one of the most accomplished girls of her set.

The wedding took place at 12:30, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham. The bride, who was given in marraige by her father, wore a handsomely modelled gown of white satin trimmed with rare old family lace and the lace veil which her mother wore on the occasion of her marriage.

Miss Janet House of New York was maid of honor and the two bridesmaids chosen were Miss Elizabeth Hare Powel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hare Powel of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., a cousin of the groom, and Miss Hope Hemenway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Hemenway. They were gowned alike in rose colored chiffon and carried huge bouquets of rambler roses.

The groom's younger brother, Thomas Ives Hare Powel, Harvard '10, was best man, and the ushers included George Mixter, 2d, and Lyman Colt Josephs, Jr., of Newport, classmates, Harvard '08, with Mr. Powel; Harford Willing Hare Powel of Newport and Harold Arrowsmith of Lenox, seniors at Harvard; Harold Hayden, Harvard '99, a son of Mrs. Horace J. Hayden (Harriet Putnam) of New York; Charles G. Loring of Boston, Harvard '03; George Tyler of Philadelphia, who graduated two years later, and Robert H. I. Goddard of Providence, Yale '02.

A reception and breakfast at the Charlesgate followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Powel will sail for Europe, where they will spend six weeks. Upon their return they will go to East Greenwich for the Summer, and next Winter will reside in Providence.

One of the notably smart affairs of the day is the Italian Festa for the benefit of the Cambridge Social Union, this afternoon at 3 o'clock for the children, and in the evening at 8 for the older people. Among the patronesses are:

Mrs. Clarence W. Ayer, Mrs. Walter I. Badger, Mrs. John Brooks, Mrs. John Graham Brooks, Mrs. Thomas H. Clark, Mrs. George P. Cogswell, Mrs. Joseph Dorr, Mrs. Woodward Emery, Mrs. Prescott Evarts, Mrs. Walton A. Green, Mrs. James J. Greenough, Mrs. W. M. Griswold, Mrs. Max Kellner, Mrs. F. Lowell Kennedy, Mrs. Francis G. Peabody, Mrs. William H. Pickering, Mrs. William T. Piper, Mrs. F. N. Robinson, Mrs. George E. Saunders, Mrs. William E. Stone, Mrs. Joseph G. Thorp, Mrs. Charles W. Turner, Mrs. Benjamin Vaughan, Mrs. Eugene Wamburg, Mrs. H. S. Wheeler and Mrs. Walter Wesselhoeft.

For the afternoon the Sicilian Marionettes of Rosario Sevasta of Messina perform some thrilling legendary deeds of arms of the young Rinaldo, a Paladin of Charlemange, who kills two lions and a giant in defence of his mother Beatrice.

There is dancing by Pulcinelli and mysterious sleight of hand tricks by a peerless prestidigitator.

In the evening the same marionettes gave more legendary deeds of arms of the Paladins of Charlemange. There is also dancing by Pulcinelli and a tarantella, native Greek dances. An Italian cafe from 9:30 until 11, where ices and Italian dishes are served at small tables. There are flower girls, fruit vendors and Neapolitan singers.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Livingston Beekman of Newport will visit Mr. Beekman's sister, sister, Mrs. William Pratt Lyman, of Beacon street, before sailing for Europe the last of the month for the London and Paris season. Mr. and Mrs. Beekman will return to Newport in July and will occupy their villa, "Land's End."

Among the first of the Summer cottagers at Ipswich are Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Goodale of Marlboro street, who have opened their villa there for the season.

Mrs. Benjamin Calef, who has been for the Winter in New York with her daughter, Anita, who so bravely accepted her losses and gracefully turned from society belle to bread winner, is to return to Boston the latter part of May.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Billings, who have just returned to their Commonwealth avenue home from a two weeks' trip to Atlantic City and New York, are planning to leave late in the month for their country place at Wareham.

RHEUMATISM CURED

By Driving Out Uric Acid Poison From the System a Permanent Cure Can Be Effected, But First the

Kidneys Must Be Healthy

Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout and All Forms of Uric Acid Poison Are Results of Kidney Disease, and Can Only Be Cured by Getting Direct at the Seat of the Trouble, the Kidneys.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE

Mrs. B. M. Crehore, of Nashville, Tenn., writes: "I can hardly tell in a letter how much good your medicines have done me. At one time I had Rheumatism so badly that I was unable to walk except with great difficulty and had taken a large quantity of Doctor's medicines with very little relief. Four bottles of Warner's Safe Rheumatic Cure entirely cleared my system of Rheumatism and I had it no more for ten years, and then it was caused by imprudence. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure once cured me of a queer, stiff feeling and swelling in my hands that I noticed every morning. It is also a general tonic—makes one feel that life is worth living. It takes away ugly, puffy circles under the eyes and clears the complexion. I know from experience what I am writing about—it is no hearsay with me. I have also found Warner's Safe Pills all right—they are a mild yet an effective laxative.

You may print this if you wish. I am always advising people to use your remedies. They will save many a doctor's bill if taken in time."

IF IN DOUBT MAKE THIS TEST:

Put some morning urine in a glass or bottle, let it stand 24 hours. If there is a reddish sediment in the bottom of the glass, or if the urine is cloudy or milky, or if you see particles or germs floating about in it, your kidneys are diseased and you should get a bottle of Warner's Safe Cure at once.

ANALYSIS FREE.

If after making this test you have any doubt as to the development of the disease in your system, send a sample of your urine, putting your name and address on the package, to our Medical Department, and our doctors will analyze it and send you a report, with advice, and medical booklet free.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE is purely vegetable and contains no harmful drugs; it does not constipate; it is a most valuable and effective tonic; it is a stimulant to digestion and awakens the torpid liver. It repairs the tissues, soothes inflammation and irritation, stimulates the enfeebled organs and heals at the same time.

WARNER'S SAFE PILLS, sugar-coated, absolutely free from deleterious substances, a perfect laxative, will cure Indigestion, Biliousness, Torpid Liver and Constipation. They do not gripe.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE is put up in two sizes and is sold by all druggists at 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle. Refuse substitutes which contain harmful drugs and injure the system.

TRIAL BOTTLE FREE. To convince every sufferer from disease of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood that WARNER'S SAFE CURE will cure, a trial bottle will be sent absolutely FREE OF CHARGE, postpaid, to any one who will write WARNER'S SAFE CURE CO., Rochester, N. Y., and mention having seen this liberal offer in the Boston American.

DOUBLE STAMPS MORNINGS

FLOOD OF VOTES FOR GREAT FREE WORLD TOURS

THERE will be no ballot box stuffing in the great voting contest to decide the winners in the BOSTON AMERICAN'S free vacation tours offer. Everyone will have an equal chance to win. Industry and popularity alone will count. A flood of votes is rolling in.

The great globe-girdling race for schoolboys, the tours of Europe for school girls and sightseeing trips to New York, Washington and Niagara Falls form the most magnificent offer ever made to school children. These world tours will prove of tremendous educational value to the children in after life, and should bring the boys and girls back home from abroad little men and little women.

Now, boys and girls of New England, some of you applicants have not qualified to receive votes. Do not delay too long. The BOSTON AMERICAN will soon print a list of those candidates who are fully qualified, and, of course, you all want your names included. If you have not sent in the fifteen nomination blanks, each signed by a different adult, do so at once, then start voting.

Remember, there are practically no restrictions as to entry. If you are fourteen years old or over and a regular attendant at school you are eligible. Not only that but if you win you have the privilege of selecting some adult to accompany you on these tours. And this is not all. There are more prizes still in sight.

Contest Just Started.

The great voting contest has just started. Many of those who made application to enter have received votes. A careful record is kept of all these votes, but they cannot be placed to your credit until you have fully qualified as a contestant. Now you see how important it is for you to send in your nomination blanks.

Nominations remain open. None is too poor to become a nominee. Every one has an equal chance. The records of this contest will be open to candidates and their friends at all times.

If you know of any worthy school boy or school girl who has not yet entered, get them to enter to-day. Educators, bankers and prominent persons in many walks of life unqualifiedly indorse this magnificent opportunity offered by the BOSTON AMERICAN to see the world. Remember the BOSTON AMERICAN will pay all the expenses, not alone of the winners but of the escorts as well.

Alderman James M. Curley, in discussing the BOSTON AMERICAN'S offer, was very enthusiastic. He said in part, "These are opportunities which were not presented when I was a youngster—how I would have welcomed a chance to engage in a contest like this when I was a boy, and for such a prize. It is really a remarkably generous offer. It will prove of tremendous educational value to any school boy or school girl in New England who is eligible."

Fair and Impartial.

Every effort has been made to make this contest in its every feature fair and impartial and to give ever yboy an equal chance.

This idea has been carried out in the voting. Efforts have been made to make it impossible for speculators to get coupons and to save them until the last minute and then rush them in. Efforts have been made to prevent the purchase of large numbers of papers for the coupons alone.

The result has been to place every candiate on an equal basis, and that this fact is appreciated is shown by the large number of votes and subscriptions which are piling in at this office.

There are two ways of voting, one is by saving the voting coupons—good for one vote, which appear on Page 2 of this and every edition of the BOSTON AMERICAN. The better way by far, and the one which piles up votes by the thousands, is by means of paid-in-advance subscriptions to the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Time Limit on Votes.

The votes printed daily have a time limit of five days and will positively not be counted unless received before the time limit expires. The votes polled by subscription will be counted at any time. Questions have been received asking whether subscriptions may be taken from territory outside of the New England States. Yes, and they will count the maximum number of votes allowed.

Candidates from various organizations continue to be named. Albert Sullivan, No. 5 Cedar terrace, Everett, a scholar of the Everett High School, is the candidate of the choir of the Grace Episcopal Church. Not alone the choir members have pledged their support of this fourteen-year-old candidate, but a number of the members of the church are interested.

Lillian Margaret Ray, of No. 1 Summer place, Roxbury, who attends the Everett School, is the candidate of the Boston Elevated Railway employes. She declares that she will have a surprise in store for her rival contestants when the voting ends.

Exchanging Votes.

Harrison Perkins, No. 11 Safford street, South Braintree, attending the Braintree High School, declares that he has lined up a majority of the scholars of this school to work for his election. Perkins has evolved a scheme of changing votes with Mary Canaway, No. 10 Central street, South Braintree. She is a candidate and saves the boys' coupons for Perkins, while Perkins saves the girls coupons for her.

Samuel N. Schlesinger, No. 16 Orchard park, Roxbury, attending the English High School, blossoms out as the candidate of the New England Telephone Company. He declares that all the "hello" girls and their beaux will not only vote for him but will support him with subscriptions.

Esther Kneller, No. 28 Dearborn street, Roxbury, a student at the Roxbury High School, declares she is the favorite of the school and that she will have the backing of every boy and girl in her neighborhood.

Ways to Get Votes.

There are many methods of getting votes. Write and tell us how YOU are getting along and what YOU are doing. Some of the contestants already have placards out; others are sending letters; some are sending postal cards to their friends; still others are making personal calls to their friends; some are using the telephone to stir up their neighborhood in an effort to secure organization in the hunt for those precious votes.

Have your friends save the coupons for you. Have your friends subscribe to the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN for you: it means from 600 to 5,000 votes.

Have your friends talk about you. Get the subscription books, which are now ready for you at the BOSTON AMERICAN OFFICE. Every one is equal. YOU can bustle as much as anyone.

Be sure to have enough postage in sending in your votes; also seal your envelopes. The BOSTON AMERICAN will not be responsible for any votes that are lost in the mails through envelopes being left open, and will not redeem letters containing votes where insufficient postage has been put on. Remember this. DO NOT ROLL YOUR COUPONS. Send them in flat packages.

Three Candidaes in the Great World Tour

Not Too Late.

Remember, that though voting has been started you are not too late to get in and carry off one of the prizes. If you have not already qualified, start to-day; secure the fifteen nominations, then get to work. Remember that the winners will be selected by popular vote from the list of qualified nominees, and from that list ONLY. Unless your name appears on this list, no votes received in your name will be credited.

Waste no time. The proper show of energy and determination should bring any boy or girl to the front with a rush. Maybe you will be the leader at the end of the first week's voting Who can tell? You can accomplish some wonderful results by one day's hard work getting paid-in-advance subscriptions. Remember, these subscriptions are worth all the way up to 5,000 votes.

Some of These Letters May Clear Your Minds

Around-the-World Editor:

Enclosed find fifteen nomination blanks and my photo. Hope I am not too late to be a contestant for the grand prize. I would like to be a winner, and will try hard, with the help of my friends. Will the AMERICAN be delivered every day?

ALICE CATHERINE MUIR.

No. 109 Canterbury street, Worcester, Mass.

Subscriptions are for the Sunday American only. They will be delivered by any dealer designated.

Around-the-World Editor:

I am sending you the nomination blanks. I hope I am not too late, as I have already started working for some new subscriptions. If I am late, please let me know.

JOHN CARROLL.

No. 7 Governor street, Providence, R. I.

You are not too late. Subscriptions are what will count. Get right to work.

Around-the-World Editor:

Please tell me how to become a candidate for the All-Around-the-World tour.

ISADORE DOLPH.

No. 188 Main street, Charlestown, Mass.

Send in fifteen nominations, each signed by a different adult, man or woman. Then get busy with votes.

Around-the-World Editor:

Enclosed please find application blank and fifteen nomination blanks, all filled out by my friends. I am rather late in sending them, but better late than never. This is my first time in a test of this kind and I would like to have a beginner's luck.

LILLIAN RAY.

No. 1 Summer place, Roxbury.

Now start out getting subscriptions and votes. Organize your friends. Pick your escort and start her to work. You are not too late.

IF THIS FLY BITES ROOSEVELT—The deadly peril that hangs over the "big game" region of Africa, which often is fatal to visiting hunters, will be told of in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

HOW TO VOTE!

A coupon good for ONE VOTE is published to-day on PAGE 2 in this and every edition of the Boston American. There are separate voting coupons for boys and girls. Clip these, have your friends clip them, and send them to the Around-the-World Editor, Boston American, Boston, Mass. Each coupon will be good only if sent or brought in on or before the date indicated thereon.

Paid-in-advance subscriptions to the Boston Sunday American, obtained by candidates, will count for votes as follows:

IN METROPOLITAN BOSTON.

3 months' subscription, $ .65, counts 600 votes.
6 months' subscription, $1.25, counts 1,200 votes.
12 months' subscription, $2.50, counts 2,500 votes.

WHERE CARRIER PRICE IS 6 CENTS.

3 months' subscription, $ .75, counts 750 votes.
6 months' subscription, $1.50, counts 1,500 votes.
12 months' subscription, $3.00, counts 3,000 votes.

WHERE CARRIER PRICE IS 7 CENTS.

3 months' subscription, $ .90, counts 900 votes.
6 months' subscription, $1.80, counts 1,800 votes.

WHERE CARRIER PRICE IS 8 CENTS.

3 months' subscription, $1.00, counts 1,000 votes.
6 months' subscription, $2.00, counts 2,250 votes.
12 months' subscription, $4.00, counts 5,000 votes.

In towns where the newsdealer's charge is greater than eight cents per Sunday the Sunday American will be sent by mail.

The difference in number of votes given for the same period of subscription inside and outside of Greater Boston is to equalize the difference in subscription price, so that the country candidates shall have the same opportunity to win as the city candidates.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS MAY BE OBTAINED AT ANY TIME BY APPLICATION AT THE BOSTON AMERICAN OFFICE, OR BY WRITING TO THE AROUND-THE-WORLD EDITOR.

Health and Beauty Helps

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

A. C. M.: My dear girl, never use a depilatory or "hair remover." A chemical that is powerful enough to kill hair is likely to prove harmful to the skin. None of them has permanent effect. They remove the hair for only a few weeks at the most, and it comes back thicker and blacker than ever.

Esther V.: I was glad to read that you are recommending my amoline complexion jelly recipe to your friends. I do not understand why your cousin was unable to get amoline from her druggist, for it is almost as common as camphor. I never advise the use of anything that is difficult to obtain and if your druggist should be out of any ingredient he can easily procure it from his wholesaler if he wants to. The shampoo recipe you ask for consists only of 1 teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water. It lathers freely and will thoroughly cleanse the scalp. By shampooing the hair with canthrox every 2 or 3 weeks it will remain soft and fluffy. Canthrox also relieves itching and irritation of the scalp. Beauty specialists charge 75 cents to $1.00 for canthrox shampoos. You can take one at home for about one cent. If troubled with dandruff read answer to Elsie J.

Mrs. R. L.: The rough and itching skin of your baby indicates that it is suffering from eczema. Any form of eczema or simple skin disease in child or adult is relieved by pouring on the affected surface of the skin a small quantity of a lotion made by mixing 4 ounces of luxor with 4 tablespoonfuls of alcohol and ½ pint of water. Repeat the application several times each day until the irritation disappears.

Annie G. and Belle R.: It is right and proper that you girls should desire to have bright, clear and sparkling eyes, for they are a wonderful charm in woman. You can make a good eye tonic by dissolving an ounce of crystos in a pint of water. One or two drops in each eye will promptly relieve your eyes of dullness, redness, or inflammation. It will strengthen your sight and is used regularly by many who wear glasses. It does not smart or burn.

Helen N.: You are not the only girl with a sallow complexion and oily skin who cannot find a face powder that pleases her. But you need not despair. There are other aids to beauty more satisfactory than face powder and the use of washes is becoming more popular everywhere, notwithstanding their high price. Here is a recipe for a wash that you can make at home and it will cost much less than any manufactured brand. Dissolve 4 ounces of spurmax in a half pint of hot water and 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This will make a complexion beautifier that whitens and softens the skin without the use of powder, and it also tends to remove pimples, tan and freckles.

"Polly Prim": Don't apologize. I welcome the opportunity to reprint recipes as often as they are called for. I know from experience how easy it is to lose a newspaper clipping. Amoline complexion cream jelly is made by mixing 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine, 1 ounce of amoline and ½ pint of water. Let it stand. This can be used for every purpose for which a cold cream is used. For massaging, apply with the fingers, rub with the finger tips in a circular motion, and the dirt and grime will promptly roll off the skin. It thoroughly cleanses the pores, clears the skin, removes blackheads, tan and freckles and makes large pores small. It contains no fat or oils that will cause superfluous hair to grow, but it keeps the skin moist, smooth and pliable.

Elsie J.: Neither you nor your husband will be embarrassed by dandruff settling on your shoulders if you follow these directions: Brush the hair and apply a quinine hair tonic made by dissolving 1 ounce of quinola in ½ pint of alcohol and ½ pint of cold water. Apply once a week. This tonic removes dandruff, stops falling hair and keeps the scalp in a healthy condition, promoting the growth of hair and making it glossy and abundant.

Kate R.: Do not be alarmed because you have become fleshy. Most of us gain weight in winter. To make a never-failing flesh reducer, get from your druggist 4 ounces of parnotis and dissolve it in a pint of hot water. Take 1 tablespoonful 3 times a day just before meals. Arise early every day and take as much outdoor exercise as you can.

Alex J.: If your blood were in healthy condition you would not be afflicted with the ugly pimples and sallow skin you complain of, and it is not likely that any salves or lotions applied externally will give you relief. You must purify your blood and arouse your liver to normal action. I feel sure that this recipe will benefit you: Dissolve 1 ounce of kardene and ½ teacupful of sugar in ½ pint of alcohol, then add 1½ pints of hot water. Take 1 tablespoonful before each meal and upon retiring. This recipe will give you a full quart of good blood tonic and liver remedy that has cured many cases of pimples, blotches, scrofula and other eruptions of the skin. It is an excellent spring medicine for it increases the appetite and tends to strengthen and build you up.

I. C. R.: A brisk walk in the fresh air will do a common headache lots of good.

REAL ESTATE DEALS BRISK IN SUBURBS

A large number of important properties in the suburbs and two in the city proper were reported sold to-day in the real estate market.

In the West End a four-story and basement brick dwelling house and 1,591 square feet of land, all assessed for $9,300, on Hale street, near Green street, have been sold by Louis Zandition to Carmelia Di Fano. The land is taxed on a valuation of $5,800.

Maren Loewe, et al., have sold to the Ekton Investment Company the three-story brick house and 832 square feet of land at No. 32 Newcomb street, near Reed street. The estate is assessed for $2,400, of which $800 is on the land.

Sales in Roxbury.

In Roxbury the two three-story brick houses and 2,536 square feet of land at Nos. 1 and 2 Davis place, off Albany street, have been sold by Baile Weiner to William H. Harlow, the title passing through Max Shapira and Ida Bernstein. The estate is taxed on a total valuation of $8,300, of which $2,300 is on the land.

In the same suburb Joseph I. Hastings has conveyed to Patrick S. Shea, title passing through Emma R. Hastings et al. and Mary A. Ramsdell, the two three-story brick houses and 2,880 square feet of land at Nos. 68-71 Bromley street, between Bromley park and Heath street. The total valuation of the property is $4,200, of which $1,700 is on the land.

Deal in Brighton.

In Brighton James E. Crane has sold to John T. Burns the large frame house and 7,259 square feet of land at Nos. 14-16 Burton street, near Washington street. The property is taxed on a total valuation of $8,100, of which $1,100 is on the land.

George W. Warwick has sold to Michael Mullins a frame house and 3,560 square feet of land on Montfern avenue, between Faneuil and Washington streets, Brighton, the property being assessed for a total of $2,000; $500 on the land.

Jacob W. Lorner has purchased from Eugene F. Murphy the frame house and 2,814 square feet of land, at No. 13½ Howell street, between Dorchester avenue and Boston street. The estate is assessed for a total of $4,500, of which $900 is on the land.

Transfer in Brookline.

Henry D. Bennett has sold for the Misses Carpenter, No. 63 Clinton road, Brookline, consisting of a three-story, colonial style wooden house with 14,064 square feet of land, all assessed for $14,500. The grantee is the Reverend Theodore P. Prudden who, after extensive alterations, will occupy in the Fall.

Mr. Bennett reports excellent demand for the better class of Brookline property, especially in the south part of the town, at prices ranging from $12,000 to $25,000.

The Corner In Wheat

Isn't Mr. Patten Acting in "Restraint of Trade"? Or Is It Only a Gamble?

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

Now comes James A. Patten, "wheat king." He has a wonderful corner in wheat. There is wild excitement in the Chicago "wheat pit" and rising, record-breaking prices. It is estimated that Patten has made already $5,500,000 for himself and his friends. The bakers are talking about smaller loaves of bread or lifting the price of the loaf.

There is a cry from the poor of London against an advance in the price of bakers' loaves. No doubt if these unfortunate people read the interview with the new "wheat king," in which he lays down the prime requirements for "success," they will say things not pleasant for him to hear.

Mr. Patten is the successful man of the hour. This is his recipe: "Be square, charitable, even tempered, sober, and take plenty of sleep."

Of course, Mr. Patten will not lose any sleep on account of the poor in London, or New York, or anywhere else having to pay more for bread. It is not his fault, he says. He lays it on the conditions. The conditions were favorable for his great "work." That's all.

But it is only natural to ask what would happen if some men with as much resources as a Rockefeller, a Carnegie, or a Morgan should regard "conditions" as "favorable" for out-Pattening Patten tenfold or a hundred-fold in "cornering" the food supply or the coal output for example. Suppose they just sat tight and refused to sell though millions starved or froze?

The conservatives usually sweep it all away with the retort that vast "corners" always fail because they are unnatural; that they always meet with accident; that they are like some tremendously powerful predatory creature of intense intelligence but unable to survive the bites of flies. It may use supreme intelligence to protect itself in devouring others, but it can't succeed, for its enemies are in the air it breathes and it is poisoned by its prey.

Nevertheless, some day it may succeed. Some day a "corner" may go beyond the transient battles of the great gamblers to get one another's money and actually get the money of everybody. What then?

There is only ONE LOGICAL CONCLUSION. It is the same conclusion as the interference by President Roosevelt to bring the Pennsylvania coal barons and the striking miners to settlement before coal famine became general.

The purpose of government is to protect the citizen from the stress of the condition of, weapon in hand, protecting himself.

Therefore, it would be NECESSARY FOR THE GOVERNMENT TO INTERFERE to prevent a "Wheat King" from holding up and robbing the people in the "wheat pit," as it now prevents an ordinary "hold-up" from standing at the door of the bakeshop exacting toll from buyers of bread.

And the question may be asked if Mr. Patten is not now acting in "restraint of trade" fully as much as the Standard Oil Company at its worst. If not, is it because the buying and selling of wheat is not a business and Mr. Patten is only a bettor!

The Archbold Letters and the Waterloo of Standard Oil

As effect follows cause, so the tariff tumble of Standard Oil follows the reading of the Archbold letters.

It has been many a year since a great monopoly has received such a staggering blow from a Republican majority as that Congressional smash into the protected vitals of Standard Oil.

It illustrates upon the surface a striking change of representative front, and beneath the surface there throbs the pulse of a mighty revolution in the public opinion which coerces majorities. There need be no difficulty in understanding this phenomenon.

THE CONGRESSIONAL THUNDERBOLT WHICH SHATTERED THE OMNIPOTENCE OF STANDARD OIL WAS FORGED IN THE INDEPENDENCE CAMPAIGN OF 1908!

When Mr. Hearst read the Archbold letters upon the national hustings he knew exactly what he was doing. He saw the end from the beginning.

The first batch of letters proved by documentary and incontestable evidence that the Standard Oil monopoly was prosecuting a successful endeavor to coerce and control national legislation in its interest through the questionable control of United States Senators and Representatives. Foraker and Sibley and McLaurin and Bailey answered to the shameless roll-calls in the halls of Congress, while Haskell, upon the outside, did heroic but henchman service to the captains of the octopus.

The second batch of letters made plain the Archbold-Standard plan to control the sacred influence of the courts, and by documentary and unanswerable evidence they arraigned judges and solicitors asked for by Standard Oil Archbold and meekly appointed by subservient executives upon the single stated qualification of their "knowledge of oil and gas."

The third and last batch of letters demonstrated the crowning and comprehensive scope of the Standard's plan to run the government. Letters were read from plain black type making enclosure of a check for $3,000 as "one year's subscription" to a prominent industrial magazine listed at $4.00 a year; "another check for $5,000" as a contribution to a well-known periodical; a check for "another $5,000" to an amiable lecturer, and a correspondence brazenly stating a plan to control, without regard to cost, "the Associated Press" and other engines and agencies of public opinion.

CONGRESS, THE COURTS and the PRESS! There they were—the three agencies of legislative omnipotence—boldly sought and in part brazenly won by one monstrous monopoly.

The Independence leader presented these disclosures calmly—without passion or abuse. The emphasis flamed in the fiery fact. The thunder roared in the bald design.

And the facts did their work. Fully sustained and fearlessly presented, they injected life into a dull campaign, aroused sluggish parties to unprecedented activity.

These three clarion calls of simple fact, sustained by evidence, went to the sluggish core of national apathy. Corporations might steal and plunder things material while the people slept, but when the robber wrist of power reached out to steal the government, consecrated by the Declaration and the Constitution as their own, it was time to wake and act.

It was public opinion that inspired the tariff vote in the House.

AND THE PUBLIC OPINION THAT STAGGERED THE SUPREME MONOPOLY WAS WAKENED AT LAST BY THE INDEPENDENCE PARTY AND ITS LEADER.

One by one the fruits of the campaign of 1908 are ripening on the tree.

TIME'S PROBLEM

By Elbert Hubbard

ELBERT HUBBARD.

TIME has always been a puzzle to philosophers. They could never explain, or account, or trace its beginning and end.

And they cannot yet.

While we can calculate the end of worlds and solar systems, time stretches away illimitable, unfettered and uncontrolled.

The principal thing that differentiates man from animals is his cognizance of time.

Animals know when they are hungry, but they never look at the sun or make any sign which shows that they are speculating about time.

Birds and fowls go to roost when it grows dark, and get busy when light returns.

When a total eclipse happens chickens accept it as a matter of course and hunt their roosts; while we foretell the coming eclipse by the use of a watch and a calendar.

And what of the eyeless fish in caves and in the depths of the sea that see no light?

Time must pass as it does to a prisoner in darkness who soon loses the power to even approximately measure time.

Prince Peter Kropotkin, in describin the horrors of solitary confinement, say the kind jailer who allowed him to ke his watch thereby saved him from in sanity.

We divide life up into periods of tim and thus make it endurable.

You lend a man money and in a yea he pays you back with something add tional—or he doesn't. Anyway, he should.

Where did the extra money come from?

Time produced half of it.

Such is the power of time. Time mitigates all grief, cures all sickness, satisfies revenge. And Shakespeare says: "What is time but the shadow of earth on the background of eternity?"

The Bible contains nine hundred an sixty references to time.

In order to picture endless time, eternity, a good old preacher I used hear put the matter this way: "If o in a thousand years a tiny bird c from a far distant planet, and car away in his bill a single grain of sand, the time would come when this entire earth would be gone—but it wouldn't then be sun-up in hell."

Does time exist outside of our consciousness?

It certainly does.

It goes on, just the same when we sleep, and if we should fail to awake, it would still go on. It will go on when watches cease to tick, when all animal life ceases to breathe, when stars cease to shine and suns to set.

How can time cease? By no leap of mind can one imagine.

Success After Failure

Oliver Goldsmith

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory

IT would be difficult to find the person, of any intellectual standing whatever, who could admit, without a blush, that he had never read "The Traveller," "The Deserted Village" and "The Vicar of Wakefield."

Yet right up to the time of the publication of "The Traveller" his closest friends, doubtless, had not the faintest hopes of Goldsmith ever amounting to anything as an author, or as anything else!

Born in 1728, he graduated, at about twenty, with slim honors at Trinity College, Dublin, and forthwith began casting about him for something to do.

Not that he was at all anxious to be be at work, for a lazier man than Oliver Goldsmith never drew a breath of life.

In rapid turn the young graduate tried six professions—theology, teaching, emigrating, law, medicine and wandering—in all of which he got but his labor for his pains.

He might have been given a church had he presented himself to the Bishop in befitting rayment, but when he came before that staid and dignified personage all decked out in scarlet and gold, looking more like a circus poster than a candidate for holy orders, he was most ceremoniously turned down.

As a teacher he was a failure, owing to the fact that, so soon as he had gotten together a few pounds, he would leave the "young ideas" to do their own "shooting" while he was having a "good time" in the company of his friends at [illegible] hostelry.

After one of his good times Goldsmith resolved to emigrate to America. But while entertaining some friends the vessel on which he had secured his passage sailed, and his emigrating scheme flashed in the pan.

From law Goldsmith turned to medicine and surgery. He was what might have been called a "select" practitioner.

He remarked one day to an old acquaintance: "I make it a rule to prescribe only for my friends," whereupon the acquaintance replied: "For God's sake, my dear doctor, alter your rule and prescribe only for your enemies."

As a bone-sawer and pill-vender the ugly little Irishman was a flat failure.

And what next? "Well," said he, "I'll take my flute and make my living as a strolling player," and off he went, wandering over Europe.

In the black sky of his "nightmare of sorrow and care" he saw a star, and in the light of that star he read his true destiny—he would write, write!

True, he was densely ignorant, but that made no difference. "If a man can tell a horse from a cow, that is the extent of his knowledge of zoology," declared Dr. Johnson.

Nevertheless, he would be a pen-wielder, for though every one knew he "talked like poor Poll," it was yet to be demonstrated that he could "write like an angel"—could write in a way to make the world love him and love him forever.
